WE ARE NOT descended from the Bowen ancestors presented here, but many of the lines presented here did turn out to be our ancestors not related to the Bowens and Lawrence. It is a shame to toss ~~most~~ of these pages, especially the very ancient ~~ones~~ many of them ancestors of Charlemagne and Hildegarde!

(as of Oct 1995)

Probably these lines can be extended back even farther when I get time to work on them.

(see "Our Royal Lines" pages in Bowen Charts binder)

West Winter, The Descendants of Charlemagne (800-1400), part I, "Brandenburg Updated," generations I-XIV, 1987, XII 75a, etc. Enguerrand II was a son of Hugh III, Count of Ponthieu (& Bertha of Aumale), son of Enguerrand I, Count of Ponthieu (& Adela, possibly of Westfriesland), son of Hugh I, Count of Ponthieu & (almost certainly) Gisela, daughter of Hugh Capet, King of France, & Adela of Poitou.

24. Thomas Lawrence + Joan Antrobus were parents of our ancestor, Marie Lawrence (b. St Albans, Hertfordshire, England 1625) who married (Lt) Thomas Burnham in Ipswich, MA Bay Colony

Note that John Lawrence, father of Thomas, had two wives. Probably we are descended from Elizabeth Bull rather than from the second wife, Margaret Roberts, since the above was printed under the auspices of the highly meticulous The American Genealogist as part of the ancestry of President Taft.

Thomas Lawrence Ancestry through his mother, Elizabeth Bull:

1 Louis IV, King of France, d. 954 (probable grandson maternally of Edward the Elder, King of England, d. 924) = Gerberga, daughter of Henry I the Fowler, German emperor, d. 936
2 Charles, Duke of Lower Lorraine = Adelaide
3 Gerberga of Lower Lorraine = Lambert, Count of Louvain
4 Maud of Louvain = Eustace I, Count of Boulogne
5 Lambert, Count of Lens = Adeliza of Normandy, sister of William I, The Conqueror, King of England, & widow of Enguerrand II, Count of Ponthieu, for whose ancestry see G. A. West Winter, The Descendants of Charlemagne (800-1400), part I, "Brandenburg Updated," generations I-XIV, 1987, XII 75a, etc. Enguerrand II was a son of Hugh III, Count of Ponthieu (& Bertha of Aumale), son of Enguerrand I, Count of Ponthieu (& Adela, possibly of Westfriesland), son of Hugh I, Count of Ponthieu & (almost certainly) Gisela, daughter of Hugh Capet, King of France, & Adela of Poitou.

14 Gilbert Pecche, 2nd Baron Pecche = Joan ---

17 Cecily Hinkley = Henry Caldebeck
18 Thomasine Caldebeck = Thomas Underhill
19 Anne Underhill = Thomas Knighton
20 Joan Knighton = Charles Bull
21 Richard Bull = Alice Hunt
22 Elizabeth Bull = John Lawrence
23 Thomas Lawrence = Joan Antrobus of Mass., who m. (2) John Tuttle

24. Thomas Lawrence + Joan Antrobus were parents of our ancestor, Marie Lawrence (b. St Albans, Hertfordshire, England 1625) who married (Lt) Thomas Burnham in Ipswich, MA Bay Colony

Note that John Lawrence, father of Thomas, had two wives. Probably we are descended from Elizabeth Bull rather than from the second wife, Margaret Roberts, since the above was printed under the auspices of the highly meticulous The American Genealogist as part of the ancestry of President Taft.

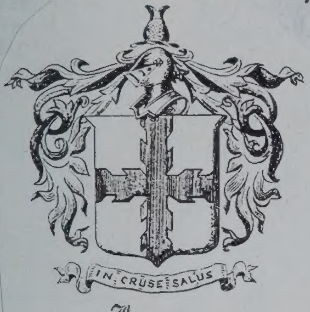
Gilman

Edward GILMAN, of Hingham, county Norfolk, England, came over to Hingham, Mass., in 1638, with wife, children, and several servants. Mr. Whitmore writes: "We find the American family (of Gilman) entitled to the arms they bear, as they have not been challenged by the English branch, still existing."

This is a group of (mostly) newspaper clippings collected by the Milw County Genealogical Society + placed in "Family File" drawers. This is only a sampling - Most concerned other branches of the Lawrence family + were discarded. Many of those here do not concern us, but some kept to reflect challenges to the pedigree - which has not been entirely discredited as it applies to our branch. There have been spirited arguments pro + con, regarding whether Marie + Jane's 3 brothers John, Wm + Thomas died rather young or settled in New York (Long Island + desc to N.J.)

I cannot decide about the brothers. So far as I can tell, the St Albans Lawrence's pedigree (ours) has not been disproved, tho that of the Groton/Watertown branch + others have been shown to be spurious (Especially pedigrees done by Somerby + perhaps Browning).



Lawrence

LAWRENCE

The founder of the Anglo-Saxon house of Lawrence was Sir Robert Lawrence, of Ashton Hall, who accompanied Richard, Cœur de Lion, to Palestine, and distinguished himself by being the first to scale the walls of Acre and place the banner of the Cross upon its battlements in 1191. For this deed he was knighted and given the Coat of Arms, still used by the family.

His line of Royal descent can be traced back to Charlemagne.

His great grandson, James, married Matilda Washington, and from this union there has been an unbroken line, from intermarriages with families of distinction in Church and State.

Before 1635, Sir Henry Lawrence became a Member of Parliament from Hertfordshire and afterwards Lord President of Cromwell's Privy Council, and while a member of the "Upper House" became one of the committee who commissioned Governor John Winthrop.

Sir Henry, with a number of English noblemen had patented a large tract of land at the mouth of the Connecticut River, and they intended to accompany Goyernor Winthrop, but were prevented by a decree of Chares I. His kinsmen, John and William Lawrence came instead, in the ship Plantar, 1635, and their brother Thomas came before 1650. William and Thomas became the founders of the American family as John and his three sons died without leaving male issue.

supposedly Marie's brothers

They were men of wealth and of great prominence in the affairs of the State.

John, the son of Thomas, moved from Massachusetts to New Amsterdam, where he became the Mayor of New York in 1691, and a Justice of the Supreme Court.

— Boston Transcript Genealogical Columns — mid 1930's.

Note 2586. LAWRENCE. In regard to the Lawrences, of Ipswich, Mass., and Long Island,—the three brothers, John, William and Thomas Lawrence, and sisters, Marie, who married Thomas Burnham, and Joane (Jane), who married George Giddings, and whose mother, Joane Antrobus, married first Thomas Lawrence, second John Tuttle, most of whom came in 1635, a few later, to Ipswich, Mass.,—much has been presented in times past about these origins, both in these columns and elsewhere. It requires both frankness and courage to challenge long accepted statements, since so doing impairs pedigrees already invoked for patriotic society membership, and that is why the truth is not easily established. The whole Lawrence Genealogy is steeped in error and wide confusion. A provocative discussion and review of all the evidences will be widely helpful. I am undertaking a new presentation in Part Six of my book, "First Settlers," and will gladly welcome any controversial arguments or later records and authorities, which will clarify the prevailing discrepancies and editorial ipse dixits. It cannot be achieved unless correspondents will approach the subject with absolute frankness and fairness and with unbiased opinion.

The first difficulty is the clearly ipse dixit statement of Mr. Charles H. Browning, in his "Magna Charta Barons" (edition of 1915, page 243, foot-note): "It has been frequently printed that the brothers, John, William and Thomas Lawrence, of Long Island, were the sons of Thomas Lawrence of St. Albans, and his wife Joan Antrobus, married at the Abbey Church, Oct. 23, 1609. Mr. Lawrence died March 20, 1625, age thirty-six, and his widow married John Tuttell, and with the surviving issue by both husbands removed from St. Albans, in April, 1635, to Massachusetts. It is true that Thomas and Joan Lawrence had sons named John (born 1618), Thomas (born 1620), and William (born 1622) [all of which is absolutely correct, to this point], but Thomas died before 1635, and William died before 1640-1641, and John, after coming over, lived and died at Muddy River, Suffolk Co., near Boston, [Statements which are as absolutely untrue.] See Boston Evening Transcript, Genealogical department, July 6, Oct. 19, and Dec. 30, 1908, and Oct. 10, 1910."

The pedigree ~~The problems~~ referred to seem to be regarding Marie's brothers.

✓ gives death date of Thos. Lawrence.

The sentences which are not founded in fact, in this article, are indicated, and neither Mr. Browning nor anyone else has furnished any record proof that there were duplicated and contemporary three brothers Lawrence, to set aside the other known facts about them, and that they were the Long Island progenitors. If such proof exists, the long intervening years have failed to produce it.

Further, the older Lawrence genealogies of seventy-five years ago are somewhat erroneous and incomplete.

Thre is doubt of the fatherhood of Elizabeth Smith, who became the first wife of William Lawrence of Long Island.

This is an old error, under which many patriotic memberships have been sustained. It will be heresy to disturb these.

June 9 - 1933

Further there are errors as to Thomas Lawrence, the Baker, of New York City, 1681, and later New Jersey. Here is an acute contention, since he also belonged to the Long Island families; that is, unless further researches conclusively show his Dutch Laurentzen origin (and, even then, he may have gone to the Netherlands via routes not so Dutch), as there is nothing conclusive about the Dutch transcriptions, and they have fooled more than one searcher.

I am always willing to change my opinions, when reasonably shown.

Note 2803. LAWRENCE. Notes and addenda to W. Rye's "Norfolk Families" (1913): Lawrence.

When Mr. Rye compiled this valuable genealogical work he gave very little consideration to the Lawrences of Norfolk. There were two principal branches: one at Wramplingham, and the other at Brockdish Comitis. The Visitation in 1664 gives the following line for the first:

John Lawrence of St. James Park (South Elmham, Suffolk: will proved Jan. 11, 1610-1) had two sons: Nathaniel, and the Rev. John of Syleham, Suff., who by his wife, a daughter of William Herne of Tibenham, had a son, John of Wramplingham, Norf., Gent. (Mayor of Norwich, 1667) who by his wife, Elizabeth Bedwell, had at least two children, Mary and Sarah.

In the Tanner Collection of the Bodleian Library Ms. clxxx 24, there is a pedigree of Lawrence of Syleham. (I have never seen a copy of this pedigree; I hope that someone who has access to this work will publish a precis of it in the Transcript.) H. G. Somerby stated he believed the Lawrences of Suffolk were extinct. In the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. 9, he quotes from Leverland's Ms. Journal of a Journey Through Suffolk, 1665 (the whereabouts of this Ms. I would like very much to know). Leverland says, " . . . of that family was a very worthy man, who had fled for religion in Queen Mary's day. In his old age he was preacher at Fressingfield, and as he was a man of great estate, so was he of great liberality to the poor, and full of good works." This worthy was doubtless the Rev. William Lawrence who by Somerby's Pedigree of Lawrence, published in 1856, is shown to be the brother of John Lawrence (died 1590) of Rumburgh, Suff. (ancestor of the Massachusetts Lawrences). Rev. William was probably the father of the John who heads the Visitation pedigree.

The Brockdish Lawrences are given in considerable detail in Blomefield's "Norfolk." However, there are certain omissions and errors which should have been corrected before now. Brady's Suffolk Collection (in British Museum) gives the correct descent, but in outline form without details. William Lawrence of St. Ives, Hunts (vide Visitation of Cambs. 1575 and Hoare's Wiltshire) had by his second wife, Marjory, daughter of Edward Kaye, a fourth son, Robert, who settled at Emneth in Norfolk, where his mother, who had married Sir Thomas Hewar, lived. Nov 21-1935

This Robert married Elizabeth, daughter of Edmund Anguish of Great Melton, and had a son and heir, Robert, Jr. (Blomefield ignores him completely) who about 1590 married Jane, sister of Sir Augustine Palgrave of Palgrave, Norfolk (she married, secondly, Sir Isaac Jermy of Stutton, Suffolk). He apparently had three daughters: Jane, married in 1628 to Ralph Cooke of Pakenham, Suffolk; Elizabeth, wife of William Hill of Hales, Sr., J. P. 1664; and Margaret, second wife of Charles Tillott of Rougham, Suffolk, Gent., 1664.

The William Lawrence of Bronedish (i. e., Brockdish) who is mentioned in the Visitation of Suffolk, 1664, as father of Margaret, wife of Baxter Bohun of Westhall, Suffolk, may also have been a son of Robert, Jr. The son and heir was a third Robert (1591-1637), who married Elisabeth, daughter of Aslack Lany (afterwards married to Richard Smith, Gent.). He built Brockdish Hall in 1634. By her he had, besides Francis, his heir: Aslack; Robert, died young; Samuel and Ellen, both born in 1635; and Elizabeth, wife of Willie Reynolds of Great Massingham, Gent.

Francis, the heir, married Ellen, daughter of Thomas Patrick of Castelacre, widow of Mathew Halcote of Litcham (she died Jan. 9, 1741). By her he had: Robert; Samuel; Frances and Elizabeth (died young); Mary, died unmarried in 1736; Jane, wife of Thomas Shinn of Great Dunham, and Ellen, wife of Thomas Young of Oxborough, Gent.

This fourth Robert by his wife Ann, daughter of Rev. John Meriton, rector of Oxborough, had Robert, an only son, rector of Brockdish, who died unmarried, and Mary, heiress of her brother, who married Robert Frankling of Lynn, Gent. They had no children.

There are several monuments of the family in the Brockdish church containing the arms of the Lawrences impailing the quarters of Aslack Lany, i. e., Aslack, Lany, Cooke, Bohun, Bardolf, Ramsey. The motto was, "Floreat ut Laurus."

The Visitation of Norfolk in 1563 and 1613 refers to several interesting marriages: John Lawrence of Suffield married Katherine, daughter of Richard Symonds (will 1606) of Suffield, Norfolk, Gent.; John of St. Albans (living about 1575), husband of Cicely, daughter of Richard Stewart, Gent., of Well County, Norfolk; William of St. Albans, Herts., husband of Alice, daughter of Thomas Sybthorpe als. Huse of St. Albans.

I happened not long ago to turn up an item (not noticed before) relating to the now dormant problem of the Lawrence-Townley-Howard of Effingham connections. In Faulkner's "Kensington" (1820) it appears that in 1668, Hale House in Kensington was owned by one of the Lawrences of Sherdington County, Gloucester; in 1682 it was owned by Francis, Lord Howard of Effingham. William Lawrence of Sherdington was born at Hale House in June, 1668, according to the York Herald's Pedigree of Lawrence of Sherdington. This is only a coincidence, of course, but quite an interesting one: the Lawrences of Sherdington have no close connection with those of St. Albans and St. Ives.

The wife Elizabeth of John Lawrence, 1609—1667, was Elizabeth Cooke, no dates (according to the Transcript of Oct. 5, 1927). Mar 20-1936

Peleg Lawrence, born Nov. 10, 1647, married in 1668 Elizabeth Morse, daughter of Joseph and Hannah Phillips Morse (Morse Memorial, page 40).

Eleazer Lawrence married Mary Scripture (Daughters of the Founder and Patriots of America, No. 373, vol. V.). She was the daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth (Knapp) Scripture and was born Feb. 7, 1680 (Butler's History of Groton).

1047. 2. LAWRENCE, WRIOTHESLY. Northwestern, Jan. 6, 1936. Your Wriothesly data is of great interest. According to the Visitation of Dorset, 1623-1682, and to pedigrees in Walter L. Lawrence's "Genealogical Notices of the Lawrence Family" (an excellent, annotated copy in the New York Public Library). Anne, sister of the Earl of Southampton (i. e., William Wriothesly), married Sir Oliver Lawrence, knight banneret, 1547, of Grange on the Isle of Purbeck in Gloucestershire (about 1500-1559), the seventh son by his wife, Mary, daughter of Richard Moore of Odihouse, Hants., of Nicholas Lawrence, Gent., of Agercroft, Lancashire (about 1455-1510), himself a second son of Edmund (about 1430-1475), fourth son of Sir Robert Lawrence of Ashton Hall (1371-1439).

Among Sir Oliver's other six brothers were Richard of Hartingfordbury, Herts., and John of Suffolk (who, H. G. Somerby claims, died in 1461—an impossibility, as then he would have been born at about the same time as his own grandfather, 1561 is probably more nearly correct). This Richard was probably the father of John of Hartingfordbury, whose son, William, married Dorothy Wrottesly. Consequently, her husband was a grandnephew of Lady Anne (Wriothesley) Lawrence (perhaps Northwestern would prefer the more contemporary title, Dame Anne Lawrence). Jan 17 1936

* It is interesting to know that Lady Lawrence's first husband was Thomas Knight. I have suspected this was the case, since I found a marriage license in the faculty office of the Archbishop of Canterbury at London, dated Feb. 6, 1548-49, for the marriage of Anne Knyght, widow, to Sir Robert (should be Oliver, obviously) Lawrence. There was absolutely no Sir Robert Lawrence living then. Sir Oliver did have a great-grandson, Sir Robert Lawrence of Grange, 1613-1666. He also had a brother, Robert, who may have made the allegation and so caused the confusion.

I feel in view of the visitations and this license that it can be freely stated that Anne Wriothesly, widow of Thomas Knight, became the wife of Sir Oliver Lawrence of Grange.

Many thanks to "Northwestern" for referring me to that valuable article, "The English Ancestry of the Lawrences of Groton and Boston, according to Horatio Gates Somerby, Esq.," pages 78-83, of Vol. X of the American Genealogist and New Haven Genealogical Magazine (1933). I had not previously known of its existence; it is unquestionably one of the first important attempts to give a scientific examination of the Somerby pedigree. Mr. G. A. Moriaty of Bristol, the author of this important accession to the Bibliographia Laurentium, shows how the identification of John Lawrence, the emigrant, of Groton, with a John Lawrence of Wisset in County Suffolk, is questionable. I am happy to say that he has reached independently some of my own conclusions; namely, that the early part of the pedigree—the squires of Ashton—is hopelessly wrong and almost indefensible. Mr. Moriarty's princple source is rightly enough the Victoria History of Lancashire.

I have been so busy disproving Browning's two erroneous pedigrees, 1915 and 1934, and S. B. Thomas's ancestry of William Lawrence of St. Ives, as well as straightening out the precise descent of the Ashton Lawrences, that I have not had time to examine Somerby's pedigree of Lawrence of Rumburgh et al, in Suffolk. In full justice to the late learned Mr. Somerby, I believe that his pedigree is derived from an imaginative chart on vellum roll, of the house of Lawrence owned by William Lawrence-Lawrence of Sevenhampton, Esq.

At this time it is appropriate to say that Part II of the Lawrence Genealogy Series—"A History of the Lawrence Squires of Ashton"—will be issued to subscribers in February. Part III, "A Miscellaneous Collection of Lawrence Pedigrees," will be out by June. Part I, "A Bibliography of the Lawrence Family" is already on the shelves of some fifteen libraries, including that of Congress, of the British Museum, the New York Public Library, the N. Y. Gen. and Biog. Soc., etc.

It was apparently he who was aged twenty in May, 1635, sailed for Virginia. (A Richard Lawrence, aged twenty in January 1635, took passage in London for the Barbados, but I submit that these two Richards are one and the same person; evidently he didn't sail as planned.

By his Anne English of St. Clements Danes, London, he had a son John born 1674, married Elizabeth —— (buried 1701), who may have accompanied his father to Maryland where he died about 1712, without issue. Sir Thomas returned to die at Chelsea 1714. His estates, or what was left o fthem, passed to his daughter Cecilia, wife of William Gerrard. Sir Thomas was said to have been descended from the Lawrences of Ashton Hall, and more specifically from Arthur of Prior's Court, Gloucestershire (see Visitation of 1583).

5. William of Duxbury, Mass., 1643, married a daughter of Francis Sprague. (Data wanted on his family group.)

6. Thomas of Milford, 1639, died 1648.

7. Daniel of St. Michael's Parish, Barbados, died 1678; wife Barbara; daughter Anne, baptized 1678.

8. Thomas of New England (?) born 1666, married Catherine Lewis 1687. His son Lawrence Lawrence 1700-1752 of New England settled in Jamaica, where he married Susanna, granddaughter of Captain John Lawrence, Sr. (2) of Fairfield. (See Lawrence-Archer's, "Monumental Inscriptions in West Indies.")

9. William, aged 22 in 1635, bound for Virginia from London. i.e. born in 1614 (not from St. Albans) possibly the brother of John of St. Ives, Hunts.' and Fairfield, Jamaica (vide supra No. 2). The first census of Virginia in 1790 lists about twenty heads of families, indicating a wide spread of Lawrences there especially in Isle of Wight and Nansemond counties.

10. George of Watertown, 1637-1709, first wife Elizabeth, daughter of Benjamin Crispe. Four sons: John of Hadley, 1664-1694; Benjamin, 1666-1738; Daniel of Charlestown, 1664-1743; George, Jr., 1668-1736, all of whom left descendants. By his second wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Joseph Holland, he had one son, Joseph.

11. Thomas, a Quaker, from London to New Jersey about 1760, died 1775, married Susanna van Eman. His son, Thomas, Jr., of Philadelphia, married Ann Palmer and left descendants there.

12. Colonel John, 1767-1810, came from Cornwall in 1772, perhaps connected with the Durning-Lawrence baronets or the Lawrences of Liskeard (see Vivian's Visitations of Cornwall). He married, first, 1775, Elizabeth, daughter of Colonel Alexander McDougall; married, secondly, in 1791, Elizabeth (Livingstone) Allen.

13. Dorothy, born 1607, and Elizabeth born 1609, for "Island of Providence" (what is this island?), aged twenty-eight and twenty-six, respectively, in April, 1635; presumably sisters.

14. Blackwell Lawrence, born 1615, for Barbadoes from London, aged sixteeen in November, 1635.

15. Robert of Falmouth, 1680, died 1690; wife, Mary, daughter of John Phillips.

16. Henry of Charlestown, died 1648.

17.—Samuel from Dorchester Prison (high treason) for Barbados, 1685.

18. John, baptized July 2 1618, at St. Albans, Hertfordshire, for New England, aged seventeen in April, 1635 (i.e., born 1617); wife, Susanna. His three sons, Joseph, John and Thomas, all died without issue. He was mayor of New York city under the Dutch about 1670; son of Thomas of St. Albans and wife, Joan Antrobus.

19. Capt. William, baptized July 27, 1622, at St. Albans, brother of John, sailed with him on ship Planter, aged 12 (born 1623) in 1635, along with sister Marie. First wife, Elizabeth Stevenson; second wife, Elizabeth Smith.

20. Marie, baptized April 10, 1625, at St. Albans, sailed with brothers John and William from London in 1635, aged 9 (i.e. born 1626). There is a slight difference amounting to perhaps a month in William's and Marie's dates; obviously she was nine but closer to ten years old. Marie Lawrence married Thomas Burnham, Sr.

21. Major Thomas of Newtown, Long Island, was baptized March 8, 1620, at St. Albans, brother of John, William and Marie (supra), emigrated separately; wife, Mary. These four emigres from St. Albans used armorial bearings and seals, proof of which when properly collected should entitle their descendants to similar privileges.

22. John of Boston married in 1654 Elizabeth Atkinson; daughter Elizabeth born 1655.

23. William of (Morristown) New Jersey, considered by the late O. E. Monnette to have been the son of John and Joan Lawrence of St. Albans, baptized June 13, 1630. John was the brother of Thomas who married Joan Antrobus; in this case William would have been a first cousin of the Long Island Lawrences.

Note 2873. Part II. LAWRENCE FAMILY. The pedigree of Lawrence of Grech Grange from Hutchins, "Dorset." Grange as well as Stapleton is in the Hundred of Hasler on the Isle of Purbeck in Dorset (not in Gloucestershire as I erroneously stated in a note published in these columns Jan. 17, 1936). This family traces its descent from the much abused Lawrence of Ashton Hall, Lancashire, according to the Visitations of 1565-1623. The arms of both at any rate are the same—argent, a cross ragulee (notched) gules.

1. Sir Oliver Lawrence (died 1559) knighted at Musselborough Field in Scotland, married Anne, sister to (Thomas) Wriothesly, Earl of Southhampton (1515-1550). (Blomefield says he was created knight-banneret by the Duke of Somerset before Roxborough, 1537; his wife has since been shown to have been the widow of Thomas Knight, physician.) Sir Oliver had three sons: Edward of Grange, Esq.; Augustine, and Matthew.

2. Edward Lawrence of Grange died Aug. 28, 1601. His first wife was Alice, daughter of Thomas Trenchard of Lichet. After her death in 1579 he married Jocosa Hudleston. He had three children: Frances, wife of William Raymond; George, eldest son, who married Frances Kelway, but died childless, and Sir Edward of Grange, knight. (There may have been another daughter, Edith, who in 1582 married Robert Lewes.)

3. Sir Edward Lawrence, Sr., knighted in 1619, died in 1629, was married first to Margaret Denton, and secondly to Katherine Radford (buried 1616). By his first marriage he had two children: Sir Edward, Jr., of Grange, died 1647, and Margaret, wife of Richard Chanon of Larkbere, Devon. By his second wife he had: 2, Oliver, who in 1625 married Ann Williams; 3, Rawleigh, born Nov. 21, 1612; 4, John, born Nov. 20, 1614, and 5, Francis.

4. Sir Edward, Jr., was knighted in 1643 at Oxon and married Grace, the daughter of Henry Bruen, Sept 22, 1623. They had five children: 1, Edward (1616-1654, without issue); 2, Sir Robert of Grange; 3, Bruen (1621-1674), apparently without children; 4, Elizabeth, wife of Robert Culliford of Encomb, and 5, Margaret, wife of William Floyer of Hays, Devon.

5. Sir Robert Lawrence of Grange, died 1666, married Jane, daughter and heiress of John Williams of Fynham (widow of Martyn Bishop of Chilcomb). They had three sons: 1, John of Grange, Esq., died without issue; 2, Francis, died without issue, 1657, and 3, Bruen, died 1670 without issue.

Hutchins's comments follow:

"This pedigree which was in the possession of the late Edward Lawrence, Gent., is unattested and without vouchers. It begins with Sir Robert Lawrence of Ashton-Hall, County Lancaster, knighted at the siege of Acon (i.e. Acre) in Palestine, by Richard I. a.r.3. After ... descents, in the seventh Sir James Lawrence is styled of Standish, temp. Henry VII. His third brother, Nicholas, is styled of Agercroft, County Lanc., and was father of Sir Oliver, who was his seventh son."

"...John the last of this family alienated all his estates to Nathaniel Bond, Esq. There was a branch of this family seated at Affpiddle, now extinct by the death of Edward Lawrence, Gent. 1770."

Other pedigrees in the Visitation of Dorset 1623 reveal that Alice (vel Jane), daughter of John Williams of Tynham, on the Isle of Purbeck, living 1623, married first Martyn Bishop of Chilcomb, and secondly Sir Edward (i.e. Sir Robert) Lawrence, Knt.

(Sir) Edward Lawrence married Grace, third daughter of Henry Brune, eldest son of Sir John Bruen, Jr., Knt., temp. Mary.

Edward, son and heir of Sir Oliver Lawrence, married Anne, daughter of Thomas Trenchard of Litchett in Dorset.

Other Lawrence items were that Thomas Lawrence of Whitchurch disclaimed arms at Bridport Sept. 10, 1623; and that "the daughter of —— Lawrence of Tisbury, Wilts." married Walter Lovell of Netley County, South', and had a son Thomas Lovell of Wilsford, Dors., living 1623.

From the Visitation of London, 1634: Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Matthew, third son of Sir Oliver Lawrence, married Martyn Freeman of London and Bechworth, Surrey, and had four children: 1, Sir Ralph Freeman of Bechworth, Knt., living in 1635; 2, William; 3, James, and Elizabeth.

The Visitation of Surrey, 1662, agrees substantially with this but states that Sir Ralph Freeman of Lee 1665, was the son of William, second son of Martyn Freeman and Elizabeth Lawrence. I do not know whether there were two Sir Ralph Freemans or only one.

From the Visitation of Somerset, 1623:

Frances Lawrence (daughter of II Edward Lawrence of Grange, esq., died 1601) married William Rayment vel Raymond of Chard, Somerset, and had three children: 1, John, aged three; 2, Thomas, and Frances.

William Lawrence of Dorset, living 1600, married Lucy, daughter of William Hill of Poundsford, Som. S. L.

Comment on Note 2873. LAWRENCE. S. L. Nov. 9, 1936. The data quoted from the History of the Welles family shows confusion of the four Ashtons in Lancashire.

The Asshetons held Ashton under Lyne, about five miles east of Manchester, on the Derbyshire border, and one of this family purchased Downham in 1558.

Ashton on Ribble also gave name to an Ashton family who held it until about 1298, and ¼ of the manor came by marriage to William Lawrence of Ribbleton.

Ashton in Makerfield, six miles north of Warrington.

Ashton in Lonsdale, three miles south of Lancaster, near the west coast (never in Yorkshire, and over twenty miles from the Downham mentioned). Ashton Hall here was held by the Lawrence family until 1555.

The overlordship of Downham has nothing to do with the Lawrence family, but the data given is incorrect. Instead of "William de Courcy died before 1348 and his widow Joanna married John de Coupland or Meschines,"—it should be: Aricia, daughter of William le Meschin of Coupland, married first William Paynel of Drax, and second, Robert de Courcy who was slain in 1157.

(Curiously enough on April 18, 1663, the vicar-general's office in London issued a license to Thomas Lawrence of Bread street, London, merchant widower, aged forty-one, to marry Elianore Spicer of the same, single, aged thirty, the ceremony to be at St. Antholin's church.)

Of course part 6 (1934) of O. E. Monnette's "First Settlers of Piscataway, N. LAWRENCE PEDIGREES. For some time I have felt that there should be a systematic investigation of the Lawrence pedigree compiled by Mr. C. H. Browning for his "Magna Charta Barons" (1915). After Dr. Monnette, author of the monumental "First Settlers Of Piscataway, N. J.," had stated that this pedigree was erroneous, Mr. Browning submitted a new and equally indefensible descent, which the learned antiquary printed with some misgivings in Part VI (1934) of his "First Settlers."

Both pedigrees begin with John Lawrence of Rissheton (the Victoria History spelling) who married Mary, daughter of the Hon Eudo de Welles. This John, however, did not own even a lease or moiety of the Manor, but evidently wa just a well-landed yeoman there. It i important to note that he is styled Joh Lawrence, Esq., of Rixton or Rister. He was not an M. P. in 1419 or at any other time. The John Lawrence who was the M. P. in 1419 (whose wife's name was Marjory and who may have been the father of John of Rissheton) was the owner of farms in Heysham and Skerton (see the Chetham Society's Vol. 93), and the fourth brother of Sir Robert Lawrence of Ashton Hall (1371-1439).

Margaret, daughter of John of Rissheton, married Robert Lawrence 3rd, (her second cousin), fourth son of Robert, Jr., of Ashton, Esq., and grandson of Si Robert. In the 191 pedigree Robert 3 is stated to have had two children: S James (actually his own elder brother see Harl. Ms. 6159); and John, abbot Ramsey Abbey in Hunts., 1507-1539. is true that Robert did have a son, Joh but he must have died before 1515 or would have inherited the Ashton estate Since we know by his will and othel leg instruments that the abbe John died 1539, he cannot then be identified wi John, son of Robert 3rd. Sir James w not the son of this John; but he did ha a second son John, lord of Ashton, Es (s. p.), who was dead and buried in 15 in Lonsdale, Lancashire, and so obviou ly was not buried in 1538 at Ramsey. H widow Alice had subsequently marrie about 1516, Thomas Booth of Parro Hall, Esq. Jan 9 1936

The Browning pedigree is, I believe correct from John of Ramsay, nephew o the abbot, to his great-grandson, William born in St. Ives, Hunts., whom he identifies with a William of St. Albans who by his wife Joan Brooke, is alleged to have had the three Lawrence brothers of Long Island. I am convinced that these Lawrences were neither sons of either of these Thomases nor from St. Ives. Mr. Browning himself acknowledged that his early pedigree was fallacious by submitting another for Dr. Monette.

In this new confection of 1934 he attempts to show a descent via the Sevenhampton Lawrences to those of St. Albans. There was indeed a third son of Robert, 3d, and Margaret Lawrence named William, but as I have demonstrated, this William or any other child of Robert, 3d, died before 1515 without any children. He may have been the William who married Isabella Molyneux (not Molineux), but I believe he died unmarried while yet a minor.

However, it has been averred in a pedigree certified by the York Herald (1840) that a William Lawrence of Sevenhampton and Withington, in County Gloucester, as Browning says, did have a fifth son, Edmund of Withington (died Aug. 20, 1558, not 1582), who by his wife, Eleanor, had the following children: Robert, his heir; Richard of Foxcote, William; Edmund, Jr., and Margaret. No John of St. Albans is therein mentioned. We have no evidence at present to demonstrate whence the St. Albans lines is derived.

I believe—and I think Dr. Monnette agrees—that Browning is on the right track when he says the Long Island Lawrences were sons of William Lawrence and Joan Antrobus of St. Albans. In the 1934 pedigree Browning took over without due credit being given the exposition of the St. Albans line from L. B. Thomas's "The Thomas Book." Ironically enough in 1915 Browning in a footnote pointed out the "false assertions" of Mr. Thomas. I am inclined to accept tentatively the Thomas reconstruction until further evidence is found to disprove it.

It is clear, then, that both Browning's pedigrees are full of erroneous filiations, principally in attributing grandchildren to Robert Lawrence, 3d, when he could not possibly have had them. Margaret Lawrence, the Magna Charta baron descendant, had no grandsons or other descendants at all living after 1515. Consequently if the Long Island Lawrences depend solely on their descent from her for their membership in the Baronial Order of Runnymede, they had better discover another line of descent.

Lest there be accusations of purely destructive criticism leveled at this communication, I hasten to say that Browning has probably only confused John and William, the sons of Robert 3d, with their second cousins, John and William, sons of Robert, fourth son of Edmund, fourth son himself of Sir Robert Lawrence of Ashton Hall, Knt. The much discussed Nicholas of Agercroft (confused by the Heralds with his namesake, the childless son of Robert, Jr., of Ashton) to whom the Dorset and Wiltshire branches trace their lineage, was an uncle of John and William, as was that John Lawrence who on his marriage to Katherine Dalton, an heiress, assumed that name. These last conclusions were reached only after an exhaustive examination of the other possibilities, which were rejected one by one on comparison with what seemed to be fairly reasonable criteria and assumptions. For reference I gave her "The American Genealogist," October, 1933, pages 78-83, in which Mr. Jacobus shows there is no evidence for this "preposterous pedigree" (referring to the illustrious pedigree claimed). Then my patron comes back with the information that Thomas Lawrence is descended from Alfred the Great, etc., for she saw it in Virkus Compendium, Vol. III, pages 620-1, and that the pedigree is acceptable to the Baronial Societies. So will some of you please tell me where evidence may be found. Aug 9. 1934

George Giddings was born 1608; died June 1. 1676. Joan (Lawrence) Giddings died March 2, 1680 (Hammatt Papers No. I., page 116). She was baptized Dec. 18, 1614. (Reference, Brigg.) Herts. Comment on Note 2810. 19 LAWRENCE. S. L., Jan. 9, 1936. It seems useless to mention that Browning is very unreliable and should never be quoted as an authority. I rather suspect that S. L. wrote the note "with his tongue in his cheek," for in preparing his bibliography of Lawrence he could hardly have avoided the several articles that appeared in the New York Genealogical and Biographical Record (referred to below as A2) and the New England Historical and Genealogical Register (A1). For the benefit of any others interested, however, permit me to review the situation briefly.

In 1856 (A1, vol. 10: 297-303) there appeared a memoir of Hon. Abbott Lawrence, LL.D., with a large tabular pedigree of Lawrence from the eleventh century, prepared by H. G. Somerby, Esq. The work of Mr. Somerby has subsequently been largely discredited because of his proven forgeries and unethical conduct, hardly surpassed by the notorious Tudor Heralds, of whom Thomas Wriothesley, Garter King of Arms, was an extreme example. "For the forgery and the falsification of documents this Thomas stands pre-eminent even among the Tudor Heralds. His character has been exposed by Eyton in 'Antiquities of Shropshire' and more recently by Mr. J. Horace Round in his 'Studies in Peerage and Family History'" ("History of the Family of Wrottesley of Wrottesley, Staffs," by Major General the Hon. George Wrottesley).

In 1871 (A2 Vol. 2; 113-123), Bishop William Ingraham Kip, D. D., printed an article entitled, "Traces of American Lineage in England." From internal evidence, and especially from his frequent references to the works of Burke, it is evident that his primary motive was inspirational rather than scientific. (Pages 121-122 gives the purported Lawrence pedigree.) This article created somewhat of a furor and was answered by W. H. Whitmore of Boston, in 1872 (A2, Vol. 3: 26-29). Watson Effingham Lawrence of New York city replied in a rather caustic fashion (A2, Vol 3: 121-131), followed by a rebuttal by Mr. Whitmore. Mr. Lawrence died before he could again reply and the matter rested until 1891 (A1, Vol. 45: 85) when the marriage record of William Lawrence and Joan Brooke was found. In 1923 (A2, Vol. 54: 258-260), a Bible record of the Long Island Lawrences appeared, and finally the whole matter was reviewed, January, 1934, in the American Genealogist.

I have found nothing to controvert Mr. Whitmore's statements in 1872, Browning to the contrary, notwithstanding. He says, "I assert, that instead of the Lawrences of New York having 'a proud pedigree of more than 700 years,' they have no pedigree beyond the first settler here. . . . No one knows the name of the father of John, William and Thomas Lawrence," (who came to Long Island in the 17th century).

These articles of 1872 are worth careful study as they are well referenced. The Bible record of 1923 (written 1846, by Nathaniel Lawrence, then 82 years of age) states that John and William Lawrence came to Long Island in 1662 and settled at Flushing; that they came from St. Omers, Herts; and, that they were older brothers of Thomas Lawrence who had come 1635 and settled at Newtown, Long Island.

Jan 27-1936

It is my firm belief that genealogical research should be on a scholarly parity with other types of historical research. I trust my bluntness will not be misunderstood.

LAWRENCE

Note 3124. Part I. I would appreciate any help from those who specialize in Royal Descents, and pre-American connections, regarding this question, which on the basis of facts, has not yet been satisfactorily settled.

Thomas Lawrence, was baptized Feb. 2, 1588-9, at St. Albans, and died there March 20, 1624-5. He married, Oct. 23, 1609, in the Abbey Church of St. Albans, to Joan Anterbus (Antrobus), daughter of Walter and Joan (nee Arnold) Antrobus. She was baptized June 25, 1692. In 1627, three years after her husband's death, Mrs. Lawrence married second, John Tuthill, a mercer, of Ipswich, and on April 2, 1635, the family emigrated to New England, sailing from London on the ship Planter.

In the party, besides Tuthill, his wife and four children, were Mrs. Tuthill's mother, Joan Antrobus, her children Lawrence (except Thomas, who came over later), her son-in-law, George Giddings, husband of Jane Lawrence, and four servants.

The children of Thomas and Joan (Antrobus) Lawrence, all of whom were baptized in St. Albans Abbey, were as follows:

1, Joanne, baptized Aug. 29, 1610, buried Aug. 31, 1610.

2, Jane, baptized Dec. 18, 1614, married George Giddings.

3, Marie, baptized Nov. 17, 1616, died young.

4, John, baptized July 26, 1618, died 1699, New York, N. Y.; married Susannah ——.

5, Thomas, baptized March 6, 1619-20, died July, 1703, at Newtown, L. I.; married Mary ——.

6, William, baptized July 27, 1622, died in 1680, Flushing, L. I.; married, first, Elizabeth; married, second, March 4, 1664, Elizabeth Smith, daughter of Richard Smith.

Browning's Data

In the early edition of Browning's Magna Charta Barons, and descendants, he prints data substantiating the above pedigree. But in his 1915 edition, he states that this is all wrong, and prints the pedigree as follows: William Lawrence of St. Stephens, parish herts (father), Henry Lawrence, buried at St. Ive's Hunts, will 1572, grandfather of the three brothers John, Thomas and William of New York and Long Island. In the foot note, he states his reasons: "It has frequently been printed that the brothers John, William and Thomas Lawrence, of Long Island, were the sons of Thomas Lawrence of St. Alban's and his wife, Joan Antrobus, married at the Abbey Church, etc. It is true that Thomas and Joan Lawrence, had sons named John (born 1618), Thomas (born 1620) and William (born 1622), but Thomas died before 1635, and William died before 1640-1, and John, after coming over, lived and died at Muddy River, near Boston

} re: the brothers

July 6, Oct. 19, Dec. 30, 1908, and Oct. 10, 1910.)"

I have looked over these old files, and do not find one single piece of proof that substantiates this statement, that John, born 1618, son of Joan Lawrence-Tuthill, one and the same man, that lived and died at Muddy River. Nor is there one single piece of evidence that substantiates the fact that William, other son died before 1640-1.

I have had occasion, with my father, to investigate this pedigree, from New York and Long Island end, and find much that substantiates the fact that these men are one and the same man from St. Albans, to New England to New York, and Long Island.

A. In the first place, you don't say much about where you obtained the fact that Mr. Lawrence was a minuteman. This term is frequently misunderstood as being limited to those who on the 18th and 19th of April of 1775 stood on the green at Lexington or at the bridge at Concord, but the minutemen of Massachusetts were to be found all over that state, and in fact in other colonies and stat (later) as well. Their real n of course, was the state or colonial militia, and this duty was required of all able-bodied men until a certain age unless they were exempted by reason of conscientious objection. In that case, they were usually required to pay money for not answering the militia call. If Mr. Lawrence was a minuteman in the Revolution, we would assume you would find out more through the Public Library in Essex County seat, but first of all you should consult the DAR Patriot Index and Pierce's Register of final settlements for Revolutionary soldiers. Unfortunately for you there is nearly a page of Lawrences in the DAR Index, but it shows which state they are from. You may wish to have a searcher in Washington look into the DAR file cards for more details.

MR. SOMERBY'S GENEALOGY OF THE ARNOLD FAMILY.

Communicated by Henry T. Drowne, Esq., of New York City.

[Having sent the proof of the preceding article to Mr. Drowne, who is a descendant of this family and much interested in its genealogy, for his annotations, we received from him, with other papers, the following copy of the early portion of a manuscript genealogy compiled by the late Horatio G. Somerby (ante, xxviii. 340), in 1870, for Benjamin G. Arnold, Esq., of New York city, which that gentleman has kindly permitted him to send us. Mr. Somerby's manuscript was "compiled from Heralds' Visitations, Inquisitions Post Mortem, Subsidy Rolls, Wills, Parish Registers, and other original documents." It makes an elegant volume. Mr. Arnold has also a tabular pedigree by Mr. Somerby, on a roll seven or eight feet long. It is embellished by these arms: Gules, a chevron ermine between three pheons or. Crest—A lion rampant gules holding in his paws a lozenge or. Motto—Mihi Gloria Cessum.

We have decided to print the matter precisely as prepared by Mr. Somerby, though this necessitates some repetition. The reader will notice discrepancies between the documents as to dates, names, &c. We hope that further research will decide which is correct.

This is about the ancestry of Benedict Arnold

This could be tossed out to save space, as it does not appear to apply to our Joan (Arnold) Antrobus – but who knows?

This is a genealogy of the powerful Rhode Island Arnold family, which came to America from Dorset.
Shows purported ancient beginnings – starting with ancient Welsh kings and including the Gamages (Norman)

From the Somerby pedigree and his own researches, George C. Arnold, Esq., of Providence, R. I., compiled and drew a genealogical tree of this family, embracing nearly thirty generations, of which a reduced facsimile on a sheet thirty inches long and twenty-four inches wide was executed in 1877 by the Graphic Company, at the expense of himself and Mr. Drowne.* The tree begins with Ynir, king of Gwentland, as does Mr. Somerby's manuscript. We refer our readers, who wish to trace the family, in lines not given in these articles, to this tree. Mr. Arnold was able to get on this sheet only a portion of the names he had collected, and he has since added to his genealogical collections. Henry E. Turner, M.D., of Newport, R. I., to whom we would return thanks for assistance, has also spent much time on this family, and has a valuable collection of materials.—EDITOR.]

GENEALOGY OF THE FAMILY OF ARNOLD, 1870.

The family of Arnold is of great antiquity, having its origin among the ancient princes of Wales. According to a pedigree recorded in the College of Arms, they trace from Ynir, King of Gwentland, who flourished about the middle of the twelfth century, and who was paternally descended from Ynir, the second son of Cadwaladr, king of the Britons; which Cadwaladr built Abergavenny in the county of Monmouth, and its castle, which was afterwards rebuilt by Hamlet ap Hamlet, ap Sir Druce of Balladon, in France, and portions of the walls still remain.

This YNIR,[1] King of Gwentland, by his wife Nesta, daughter of Jestin ap Gurgan, King of Glamorgan, had a son

MEIRIC[2] who succeeded his father as King of Gwentland, and left by his wife Eleanor, daughter of Ednived ap Jerworth, of the house of Trevor, a son

YNIR VICHAN,[3] who was also King of Gwent, and who married Gladice, daughter of Rhys Goch ap Maenerch, Lord of Ystradyw, in Brecknockshire, by whom he had a son

CARADOR[4] AP YNIR VICHAN, Lord of Gwent, whose wife was Nesta, daughter and heir of Sir Rydereck le Gros, Knight, by whom he had a son

DYFNWALL[5] AP CARADOR, Lord of Gwent, who married Joyes, daughter of Hamlet ap Sir Druce, Duke of Balladon, in France. Her brother Hamlet rebuilt the Castle of Abergavenny, as before mentioned. Their son

SYSTYL[6] AP DYFNWALL, Lord of Upper Gwent, married Annest, daughter and heir of Sir Peter Russell, Knight, Lord of Kentchurch in the county of Hereford, and by her he had a son

* Mr. Arnold has made three genealogical trees of the Arnold family. The first, constructed about thirty years ago, began with William Arnold, the emigrant, as the root. The second, a much larger one, containing twenty-seven or twenty-eight generations, with the early ones copied from the roll prepared by Mr. Somerby, was made in 1874 or 1875, and was presented by Mr. Arnold to his grandson, Henry Russell Drowne, who now has it. The third tree is still in the hands of the compiler. It is that from which was photo-lithographed the tree referred to in the text, which is just one-quarter the size of the original. Many family registers were placed in the compiler's hands by Welcome Arnold Greene and others.—EDITOR.

1. John Arnold, eldest son, who in 1541 had granted to him the livery and manor of Higham and Over, in the parish of Churcham and co. of Gloucester, where he died Sept. 15, 1545. Buried in church of Churcham. Brass plate. Arms: Gules, a chevron Ermine, between three pheons or.

[2. Richard Arnold.] * * *

RICHARD[14] ARNOLD, the second son of Thomas Arnold of Llanthony, removed into Somersetshire, and resided in the parish of Street. He married Emmote, daughter and heir of Pearce Young, of Damerham, in Wiltshire, by whom he had three sons, namely:

RICHARD[15] ARNOLD, eldest son and heir of Richard Arnold, of Somersetshire, removed into Dorsetshire, and became seated at Bagbere, in the parish of Middleton, otherwise Milton Abbas. He was Lord of the manor of Bagbere, and also possessed estates in Alton Pancras, Buckland Newton, Cheselbourne, Melcombe Horsey, and other places in that county. He was also patron of the churches of Blandford and of Bingham Melcombe. His name appears in the Subsidy Rolls of the county of Dorset, as being assessed to the King's subsidies in 1549. He is also mentioned in the inquisition held in 1607, after the death of his son Richard, respecting the tenure of the estates. His manor house at Bagbere was standing until a few years since [1870], when it was demolished, and a smaller building, occupied as a farm house, erected upon its site. A small portion of the ancient building incorporated in the walls of the modern dwelling, is the only vestige of the original building. Mr. Arnold made his last will and testament on the 15th of May, 1593, which was proved July 9, 1595. He desires "to be buried in the Parishe Churche of Milton in the Ile called Jesus Ile as we goe to the Tower." The church of Milton was restored a few years since, and many of the ancient memorials removed. The early parish registers have also been lost, the oldest now in possession of the Vicar dating from 1650. Mr. Arnold was twice married. By his first wife he had, besides a daughter Repentance, who became the wife of her cousin William Arnold * * * * * four sons, namely: 1. Richard Arnold of Alton Pancras. [2. Thomas.] 3. Robert, of Armswell. 4. John, the elder by first wife, [etc.][1] * * * *

Horsey, as appears from the Subsidy Rolls of the year 1598, from which place he removed to Cheselbourne, and seated himself on an estate previously belonging to his father. The earliest parish registers now extant of Cheselbourne date only from 1644, and those of Melcombe Horsey from 1690. Fortunately, however, this branch of the family possessed a private record of the baptisms of their children, which was preserved and brought to America. Mr. Arnold was twice married. His first wife was Alice, daughter of John Gulley, of North Over, in the parish of Tolpuddle, a short distance from Cheselbourne. By this marriage he had

1. Thomazine, whose husband was —— Hooker, by whom she had Robert, bapt. Jan. 23, 1597; Julian, Jan. 24, 1599; John, Oct. 25, 1601; William, Oct. 31, 1604; Alice, born Aug. 27, 1607; Mary, March 4, 1609; Thomas, April 7, 1616.
2. Joanna, bapt. Nov. 30, 1577. Her husband was —— Hopkins, by whom she had Francis, bapt. May 23, 1614; Thomas, April 7, 1616; Elizabeth, July 3, 1619.
3. Margery, bapt. Aug. 30, 1581.
4. Robert, bapt. ——, 1583.
5. John, born 1585. He resided at Cheselbourne, where he died in 1616, leaving children—John,^{18} William,^{18} Edith,^{18} Thomas,^{18} and Christian.^{18} On the 23d of November, 1616, his brother William, of Cheselbourne, afterwards of New England, was appointed administrator to the estate and guardian of the children during their minority.

[6. William.]

Mr. Thomas Arnold by his second wife had one son and two daughters, namely:

[7.] Elizabeth, b. in 1596; m. Feb. 1617, to John Sayles, Jr.
[8.] Thomas, bapt. April 18, 1599.*
[9.] Eleanor, bapt. July 31, 1606.

William^{17} Arnold, the youngest son of Thomas^{16} Arnold, of Cheselbourne, by his first wife, was born June 24, 1587.† The early parish registers of Cheselbourne have not been preserved, those now in existence dating only from 1644. Private memoranda, however, taken with the family to New England, supply important links in the genealogy. He resided at Cheselbourne, where on the 23d of November, 1616, he was appointed administrator to the estate of his brother John, also of Cheselbourne, and guardian to his children during their minority, one of whom, William, in an affidavit respecting the sequestration of lands in the time of the Commonwealth, speaks of his uncle in foreign parts.

In the year 1635, Mr. Arnold, with his family, left Dorsetshire and came to New England. After residing a short time at Hingham, in Massachusetts, he became associated in 1636 with Roger Williams and others in the purchase from the Indians of lands at Mooshausick, which was afterwards called Providence, of which colony Mr. Williams procured the first charter. The place which they selected for their settlement they called Providence, for certain reasons presented by Mr. Williams. The land was parcelled out among the associates, Mr. Arnold receiving large portions in Providence, and Pawtuxet and Warwick. He was held in much esteem, and filled various important offices of trust. The scanty records of Rhode Island afford very little information respecting him, not even the time of his death being known. The last mention of him in the colonial records of the proceedings of the General Court at Providence, March 9, 1658–9, states that he was lately robbed of property at Pawtuxet by the Indians. It is probable he died soon after. His wife was Christian, whose surname has not been preserved. Their children were:

1. Elizabeth, b. Nov. 23, 1611; m. to Thomas Hopkins.
2. Benedict, b. Dec. 3, 1615, the oldest son, removed to Newport in 1653, and was chosen Assistant to manage the affairs of the colony in the following year. In 1657 he succeeded Mr. Williams as Governor, and continued in that office till 1660. He was also Governor from 1662 to 1666, from 1669 to 1672, and from 1677 to 1678—in which last year he died. He was the wealthiest man in the colony, and by thorough acquaintance with the manners as well as the language of the Indians, he became the most efficient auxiliary in all negotiations with them. He died in 1678, having made his last will and testament on the 24th of December in the year preceding, to which he added a codicil on the 10th of the following February. His wife was Damaris, daughter of Stukeley Westcott, of Providence, by whom he had
    1. Godsgift,^{19} m. to Edward Pelham [ante, xxvi. 401; xxxiii. 292].
    2. Josiah,^{19} of Providence, and of Jamestown in Conanicut; a captain. He m. Mary, eldest daughter of Thomas Ward, of Newport.
    3. Benedict,^{19} b. 1641; of Newport. Assistant from 1690 to $95. Representative to the General Court in 1699. His first wife, whom he m. March 9, 1671, and by whom he had six children, was Mary Turner. By his second wife, Sarah Mumford, he had three daughters.*
    4. Freelove,^{19} was the second wife of Edward Pelham.
    5. Oliver,^{19} of Jamestown; left issue by his wife Phœbe.
    6. Caleb.^{19}
    7. Damaris,^{19} m. to John Bliss.
    8. Priscilla.^{19}

* Thomas^{17} Arnold settled in Watertown, Mass., as early as 1640, and, on the 13th of May of that year, was admitted freeman of the colony. He is supposed by Savage (Gen. Dict. i. 66), Locke (ante, v. 250), and Bond (Wat. i. 9), to have been the Thomas Arnold, aged 30, who embarked May 15, 1635, in the Plain Joan for Virginia (ante, ii. 212); but if so his age is not correctly given. His first wife's name is not known. He married, probably about 1640, Phebe, daughter of George Parkhurst, of Watertown. In 1654 and 1655 he was fined for not attending public worship. He afterwards removed to Providence, and was admitted freeman of the Rhode Island colony, May 18, 1658. He was deputy in 1670. He died March 24, 1674–5.

His children by his first wife were—1. Thomas,^{18} b. May 3, 1625, d. young; 2. Nicholas,^{18} bapt. Jan. 15, 1627, d. young; 3. Susannah,^{18} m. at Boston, April 7, 1654, John Farnum.

By his wife Phebe he had—4. Ichabod,^{18} born at Watertown, March 1, 1640–1; 5. Richard,^{18} b. at W. March 22, 1642–3; 6. Elizabeth,^{18} b. 1645, m. Samuel Comstock, and died 1745; 7. John,^{18} b. at W. Feb. 19, 1647–8, d. at Providence Jan. 5, 1722; 8. Eleazer,^{18} b. at W. June 17, 1651, d. at Providence Aug. 29, 1722.

Richard^{18} Arnold, eldest surviving son of the preceding, was born at Watertown, March 22, 1642–3, and died at Providence April 22, 1710. He had son Thomas,^{19} b. March 4, 1675, whose son Jonathan^{20} (b. Nov. 18, 1708, d. Dec. 29, 1796), m. Abigail, daughter of Benjamin Smith, of Providence, and was father of Welcome,^{21} b. March 25, 1745, who m. Samuel Greene^{23} Arnold, the historian of Rhode Island.—H. T. D.

† William^{17} Arnold set sail with his family from Dartmouth, old England, May 1, 1635, and arrived on the 24th of the following month in New England. In Lincoln's "History of Hingham, Mass.," he is mentioned as William Arnall, and as coming thither in 1635. He removed with his family on the 20th of April, 1636, to Providence. He received grants of land from Roger Williams, and his initials W. A. are second in the famous Initial Deed of R. W. His real estate was mostly in Providence, Pawtuxet and Warwick, where he had houses and lived at his pleasure. He was held in high esteem, and filled various important offices of trust. The scanty records of Rhode Island afford but little information concerning the early settlers. It is probable that he was buried on his homestead in Pawtuxet, R. I.—H. T. D.

* Capt. Benedict and Capt. Oliver Arnold, brothers (Caulkins's "History of Norwich," ed. 1866, p. 409), settled at Norwich, Ct., early in the eighteenth century. From the Arnold genealogical tree we learn that they were sons of Benedict,^{19} born 1641, and grandsons of Gov. Benedict^{18} Arnold. Capt. Benedict^{20} Arnold married, Nov. 8, 1733, at N., Mrs. Hannah (Waterman) King, widow of Absalom King, and had nine children, whose names and birth-dates are given in Hinman's "Puritan Settlers of Connecticut," second ed. p. 60. The oldest child, Benedict, died young. The second child, Gen. Benedict^{21} Arnold, born at Norwich, Jan. 3, 1740–1, died at London, June 14, 1801. His services in the revolutionary war and subsequent treason are well known. Gen. Arnold had (Burke's Landed ARNOLD The Arnold family is one of great antiquity and honorable mention in the early annals. The descent is traced to Ynir, king of Gwentland, who flourished about the middle of the twelfth century. King Ynir descended through a second son from Cadwalader, last king of the Britons. The ancient castle of Abergavenny, Monmouthshire, England, built by Cadwalader, may yet be seen, although in ruins. The family name was closely identified with the records of early events in New England, and figures conspicuously in the records of both church and state.

(II) Meiric, king of Gwentland, married Eleanor, of the house of Trevor.

He married (first) Alice, daughter of John Gulley, of North Over, parish of Tolbuddle, near Cheselbourne, baptized September 29, 1553. Children of this marriage were: Tamsen, baptized January 4, 1571; Joane, November 30, 1577; Marjory, August 30, 1581; Robert, October 18, 1583; John, born 1585; William, mentioned below. He held various important offices, and was held in high esteem in the community. From Roger Williams he received grants of land in Providence and Pawtuxet in the town of Warwick. A record preserved, written by himself, states that he removed from Providence to Newport, November 19, 1656, the journey being made on that day, probably by boat. He died in 1676. One of his estates was known as "The Cowesett Purchase," which was divided among his sons during his life. He was very active in the conduct of Colonial affairs, serving as deputy to the general court in 1664-65, 1667, 1670-71-72, 1674-75-76-77, 1684-85, and 1690. This binder contains the involved and extensive royal lines of A Bowen family, but that Bowen family evidently did not produce our Richard Bowen of Rehoboth, as so many people have been led to believe. Do not throw this away. It's a small world - some of these people may might be ours in some other line & that would come in handy (This also has some Griffith lines)

It was originally claimed that this was also Richard Bowen's line, but they later decided the other was correct (shown on pedigree charts) in this book.
Do not destroy this – some of these people may still be our ancestors, especially the Lords of Brecknock (Incidentally, some of these people include Tudors, ancestors of King Henry VII & VIII &
Queen Elizabeth) More details &

PREFACE.

THIS volume is the result of a curiosity to know something of my Bowen ancestry. It is not intended to be a complete genealogy, but an account of the lineage of the Bowens of Woodstock, Conn., and of some of their descendants.

I have not made a thorough search for all the Welsh and English records of my Welsh ancestors, but stopped when I had established the descent of Griffith Bowen of Boston, in 1638, from the Bowens of Slade, on the Gower, Glamorganshire, Wales.

I am greatly indebted to Rev. J. D. Davies, M. A., rector of Cheriton and Llanmadoc, the historian of the Gower, for copies of documents, for permission to quote from his published histories, and for more than a friendly interest in my work, without which I am quite sure I should have failed in my quest for the home and family in Wales, of Griffith Bowen of Boston.

The three following pedigrees of the Bowens of Slade differ in minor points and supplement one another, making it advisable to print all of them. The pedigree of the Bowens of Court House is given because it concerns a neighboring family of the same name, though not related, and because it seems probable that Richard Bowen of Rehoboth, Mass., about 1640, was a member of that family; but this has yet to be proved.

The account of Griffith Bowen, which follows the pedigrees, was written, at my request, by Mr. Davies, before all the material here printed was discovered. This account was afterwards published in Mr. Davies's "History of West Gower." From the published account I have eliminated what more recent discoveries have rendered unnecessary to relate herein.

The documents are partly copies of originals in the possession of Miss Talbot of Penrice Castle and Margam Park, which were sent to me, with Miss Talbot's permission, by W. de Gray Birch, Esq., of the British Museum, and by Mr. Davies. Some of these

From Davies' West Gower, Part IV., Swansea, 1894.

THERE was an ancient family of Bowens of Court House, in the parish of Ilston, but I have not been able to connect it with that of the Bowens of Slade: this is rather a singular thing; the peninsula of Gower is a comparatively small locality, and it would be very strange if the two families should be distinct. I cannot help thinking that there must be a connection, although I have failed to trace it. The arms of those of Bowen of Slade are those of Griffith Gwyr, namely, a stag lodged, holding an oak branch in his mouth; while those of Bowen of Court House are a stag trippant with an arrow stuck in his back. This is one of those points in the history of the Bowens of Gower which yet remains to be cleared up.

In comparing the two pedigrees, that drawn up by J. H. and that compiled by Mr. Edwardes,[1] it will be seen that the latter goes much farther back than that of J. H., tracing the Bowens of Slade up to Griffith Gwyr, who was the son of Cadivor, the son of Gwgan, the son of Blethin, the son of Maenarch, Prince of Brecknoke. J. H. does not go so far as this in the pedigree given by him, but states that the family "trace up to Griffith Gwyr, whose arms were a stag couchant G. holding an olive branch in his mouth." It should be an oak branch, not an olive branch. At the same time, it will be observed that, while they both agree in the main, each supplies some information which the other omits; for instance, when we come to Griffith Bowen, Mr. Edwardes omits all mention of Griffith Bowen's wife, who we learn from the J. H. pedigree was . . . a daughter of Henry Fleming, and whose Christian name, as we now know (from certain American documents), was Margaret. It must also be noticed that Mr. Edwardes gives us the name of the place where Griffith Bowen resided, namely, Burryhead, which is omitted by J. H.

It was chiefly by the help of these two pedigrees, thus throwing mutual light upon each other, and by reading them together, that I was able to identify the said Griffith Bowen, and to write the memoir which will be found a little farther on. Yet when I copied out the J. H.[1] pedigree of Bowen of Slade, I had not the slightest idea that it would afterwards prove of so much service to some of our American cousins on the other side of the Atlantic. It seems that Griffith Bowen, son of Francis, emigrated to Boston, Mass., in the year 1638, where some of his family married and settled, while he himself returned to this country. Now it happens that, 254 years after this event, the greatest possible interest has been taken by his American descendants in the history and pedigree of their remote ancestor on this side of the water. An American gentleman having applied to me for assistance in his researches, the following paper was written. And as it relates to the member of a very ancient family, which once resided at Slade, I am glad that the inquiry started in New York has given me an opportunity of adding this biographical sketch of Griffith Bowen to my notices of the parish of Oxwich. Yet, strange to say, every memorial of this family has disappeared from these parts; there is not, so far as I have been able to learn, a tradition of their existence; there is no monument in the church, nor a single entry in any of the old register books of Oxwich and Penrice, and even the name has been forgotten. But I am pleased to think that, in the pages of this book, I have been able to give the pedigree, and many interesting particulars relating to this ancient family, which, although extinct here, still survives and flourishes in another part of the world. At the same time I cannot help expressing a hope that the interest now taken by our American cousins in the history of their kinsman in the old country will serve to show how close are the ties which should unite two great nations in the bonds of amity and friendship.

SOME ACCOUNT OF GRIFFITH BOWEN,[2]

OF LLANGENYDD, GOWER, GLAMORGANSHIRE, GENT., WHO EMIGRATED TO BOSTON, MASS., IN 1638.

In the year 1886, Mr. Edward A. Bowen, of Brooklyn, New York, came to Wales, in order to obtain all the information he could about his remote ancestors in this country in general, and this Griffith Bowen in particular, — whether anything was known of him in Llangenydd, or any descendants still living in the neighborhood; also if the house still remained, or the site of it known; whether any Griffith Bowen could be traced there at all; also, whether the Griffith Bowen who emigrated in 1638, and returned in 1649, was the same Griffith Bowen who purchased certain lands in Pembrokeshire of Col. Philip Jones, and had a lawsuit with him about them afterwards, in 1671, and whether he was identical with the Griffith Bowen, gent., mentioned in the survey of the Manor of Penrice, Gower, in 1632. In short, he wanted to verify all the American evidence he had gathered together, and to collate it with evidence of a cognate character here.

After visiting different parts of the Principality, he was recommended to apply to me, as one likely to render him some assistance. Not being prepared for his visit, and as he was pressed for time, I could only go through my large collection of papers in a very hurried manner, and could give him but little aid on that occasion. I however supplied him with a pedigree of Bowen of Court House, in the parish of Ilston, but quite overlooked the pedigree of Bowen of Slade, in the parish of Oxwich, where the clue was at last found, which led to very important results. On discovering this pedigree five years afterwards, and perceiving how its evidence tended to put him on the right track, I at once forwarded him a copy, on the receipt of which he immediately sent me all his Boston notes and papers, with a request that I would try and trace out all he wanted to know. With the help of the materials thus supplied, and the aid of the Penrice MSS., together with my intimate knowledge of the locality, where I have lived all my life, the task was a comparatively easy one; and I do most heartily congratulate Mr. Bowen upon the success of his indefatigable perseverance, which has resulted in clearing up at least a few of the obscure points in the history of his remote ancestor.

It appears from the evidence collected by Mr. Edward A. Bowen, of New York, a descendant of the aforesaid Griffith, that Mr. Griffith Bowen, who emigrated from Llangenydd to Boston in the year 1638, acquired a considerable estate there, which, upon his decease in this country in 1676, was divided between his sons, Francis, William, and Henry.

Soon after his arrival in Boston, he and his wife Margaret joined one of the earliest religious communities established there, . . . as shown by the following memorandum, copied from the records of that place of worship, and preserved at Boston: —

[1] The Edwardes pedigree did not come to hand until some years after.

[2] Although this Griffith Bowen is found at Llangenydd, his grandfather and great-grandfather were of Slade, in the parish of Oxwich.

Taken in for Members of ye Congregation, The 6^{t} of ye 12th Moneth [1638] Griffith Bowen and his wife Margarett.

It appears also that a Richard Bowen, but of what family is not clearly known, died, and was interred in the burial ground attached to Rehoboth, and the Bowen arms, a stag trippant with an arrow stuck in his back, were cut on his tombstone, thus furnishing a strong proof that he was of the ancient family of the Bowens of Glamorganshire. The same arms are borne by the Bowens of Llwyngwair, Pembrokeshire.

It appears further, from the following bond, the original of which has happily been preserved, that Griffith Bowen, when he left South Wales, came from the parish of Llangenydd. The obligation of the bond is in Latin, and the condition in English, a not uncommon form of drawing them up in those days: —

Having had much experience in deciphering the abbreviated Latin in which this bond is written, and still more obscurely contracted in earlier deeds, I have ventured to give the text below in full, as probably, to some of the readers of this paper, it may be rather unintelligible as it stands in the original: —

Noverint universi per presentes, nos Henricum Bowen de Haraden in comitatu de Glamorgan, generosum, et Henricum Morgan de llougher in comitatu predicto, generosum, Teneri et firmiter obligari Griffino Bowen nuper de Langenith in comitatu predicto generoso, in ducentis et quadraginta libris bone et legalis monete Anglie solvendis eidem Griffino aut suo certo Atornato executoribus vel Asignatis suis, ad quam quidem solucionem bene et fideliter faciendam obligamus nos et utrumque nostrum per se pro toto et in solido heredes executores et Administratores nostros firmiter per presentes sigillis nostris sigillatos. Datum decimo quinto die Maii Anno Regni domini nostrum Caroli dei gratia Anglie, Scotie, ffrancie et Hibernie Regis fidei defensoris decimo sexto, Anno que domini 1640.

In English it may be read as follows: —

Know all men by these presents, that we Henry Bowen of Haraden in the county of Glamorgan, gentleman, and Henry Morgan of llougher, in the county aforesaid, gentleman, are held and firmly bound to Griffith Bowen, late of Langenith, in the county aforesaid, gentleman, in £240 of good and lawful money of England, to be paid to the said Griffith or his certified Attorney, executors or assigns. For which payment to be well and faithfully made, we bind ourselves, and each of us by himself for the whole and in the full amount, our heirs, executors and administrators firmly by these presents sealed with our seals. Dated the 15th day of May, in the year of the reign of our Lord Charles, by the grace of God of England, Scotland, France and Ireland king, defender of the faith, the sixteenth, and in the year of the Lord, 1640.

I may as well mention, for the sake of those not learned in the law, that it was customary then, as now, for bonds to be given for a larger sum than that actually due. The preservation of this bond is a most fortunate circumstance, inasmuch as the words "nuper de Langenith" (late of Langenith) supply the clearest information as to where Mr. Griffith Bowen lived before he went to Boston.

It further appears that he returned to his native country in the year 1649, for in 1650, in an old Gower survey made in that year, we meet with the following entry: "The same for a tenement now in the hands of Griffith Bowen." Vid. "Gower Lordships," by Charles Baker and G. G. Francis.

In searching for information at the Public Record Office in London, Mr. Edward A. Bowen came across a very important piece of evidence bearing upon this point and the identity of the said Griffith Bowen: —

[1] When a stroke runs horizontally through the tail of a p, it means per; when it winds about it like an s, it means pre or pro: both examples occur here; the diphthong æ is never used in old law Latin deeds.

Miss Sybbel Bowen, wife of John Stevens of Hardingsdown, I can say nothing further at present than I have already said in this pap The names of Bowen and Stevens still linger on in different parts of Gower, but those who bear them have lost all trace of their connection with the earlier Bowens of the seventeenth century.

The J. H. pedigrees which I have quoted, and which have proved so useful in the present inquiry and others, form a large folio of MS. pedigrees, lately in the possession of Mr. Joseph Joseph, F. S. A., of Brecon, now deceased, who kindly lent them to me. From the internal evidence furnished by the book itself, it is evident that J. H. was at his work in the close of the seventeenth century, and finished his genealogical compilation about 1727. He only gives his initials, and it is not known who he was, but, from his apparent familiarity with all the old Gower families, one might almost think him to have been a Gower man; he was contemporary with many of those whose pedigrees he was then writing, and therefore had his information from the fountain-head. His statements can be relied upon, and whenever I have had an opportunity of verifying them by collateral evidence I have always found them correct.

COLLATERAL EVIDENCE BEARING UPON THE TWO FOREGOING PEDIGREES, CONFIRMING THE SAME AND SUPPLYING DATES, ETC.

Griffith ap Owen was alive in 1557, the 4th and 5th of Philip and Mary, and figured very conspicuously in the affray which took place at Oxwich Castle between Edward Mansel, Esq., and Sir George Herbert, Knt., of Swansea, on the 28th of December in that year. In the proceedings in the Star Chamber in London, with reference to this serious breach of the peace by Sir George, it is there stated, amongst other charges brought against him, that he did riotously and forcibly enter the mansion house of one Griffith ap Owen in Oxwich, and took away two French prisoners, a sarplire of wool, one barrel of raisins, and two pieces of figgs, being the property of Sir Rice Mansel, Kt., and taken by him and his servants as Frenchmen's goods in time of war.

In the College of Arms pedigree we learn that Griffith ap Owen, there called Griffith Bowen, lived at Slade, which is in the parish of Oxwich, and where his mansion house, at least all that remains of it, may still be seen, now converted into a farmhouse, but bearing Portions of it were pulled down some few years ago, and a pointed arch of freestone was discovered, forming a doorway into a roo now made into a dairy. The present tenant, Mr. Francis Tuck told me that the roof of that part which was pulled down was of oak, and resembled the roof of a church. He also informed me that a piece of oak panelling, much decayed, was found over a doorway inside the building, having, as near as he could make out, the initials W. B. cut upon it.

With reference to Philip Bowen of Slade, son of the aforesaid Griffith ap Owen, alias Griffith Bowen, for the names are synonymous, we are able to supply a date from certain chancery proceedings taken by the said Philip and Elizabeth his wife, before Sir Nicholas Bacon, the then Lord Chancellor, whose period was 1558–1572. The text of the bills has been preserved,[1] but the date has been torn off: —

ANSWER OF DAVID JOHN VAUGHAN, HOPKYNE DAVID, DAVID MORGANE VOYA, EDWARD WILLIAM & EDWARD GRIFFITH, DEFENDANTS, TO THE BILL OF COMPLAINT OF PHYLYPE & ELIZABETH BOWEN.

Whereas Edward Griffithe disdains having any part of the said premises & the other defendants state that John Thomas Vaughan, father of Hopkyns Jones & Davyd John Vaughan was seised of the premises specified in the bill & being so seized since the statute xxvij Hen. viij. did enfeof one Griffith Yorathe to have and to hold the same to the use of John Thomas Vaughan & Jenet then his wife & their heirs & the remainder to the use of John Thomas Vaughan and his heirs as shewn in the conveyance & by force of which statute they were so seized, and their issue were David John Vaughan (eldest son) and Hopkyne Jones (younger son) & he died and Jennet survived and held herself unto the premisses as survivor during her life, & after her death the remainder and reversion descended to David John Vaughan as son and heir who was thereof seized and demised part of the premisses to David Morgan, and part to one Jennett now the wife of Edward William, and part to Hopkyn David by reason of which the said defendants take the rents and proffits and detain the title deeds, &c. Defendants the facts stated in the bill and are ready to prove all they say in this answer, &c., &c.

Abstract:

REPLICATION OF PHILIP & ELIZABETH BOWEN, TO THE ANSWER OF DAVID JOHN VAUGHAN & OTHER DEFENDANTS.

The complainants say it is true that John Thomas Vaughan (father of Hopkyn Johns and David John Vaughan) was seized of the premisses specified in the bill, and by the statute xxxij. Hen. viij., by his will, devised all the premisses to Hopkyn Johns his son and heirs for ever, who on his father's death was seized of the premises for xiiij years, and then died, and the premises then descended by right to Elizabeth his daughter & sole heir and they deny what is stated in the answer, and are ready to prove all they state in this replication, &c.

The preservation of these chancery proceedings is of much importance, as they not only serve to confirm the correctness of the pedigree, but enable us to supply a date of the time when Philip Bowen and his wife Elizabeth were living.

This Philip Bowen, son of Griffith ap Owen of Slade, in the parish of Oxwich (vid. pedigree), was alive in 1583, and his name appears in a document of that date, which has been discovered among the Penrice MSS. In the descriptive catalogue of the second series of the above MSS., and published in 1894, the following abstract is given:—

No. 809. Grant by Griffith Gronowe of Pennarde, gentleman, and Philip Bowen of Oxenwich, gentleman, to John Lucas of Stouthole, yeoman, of a moiety of a messuage at Galpenshille, in Penrice, for £22. [Latin.]
Dated: 30th March, 25th Eliz., A. D. 1583.
Signature of Philip Bowen.
Two small seals, red wax; 1, uncertain; 2, a stag for Bowen, and the initial letters P. L. for Philip Lucas, a witness.

Griffith's
Parents

What adds to the value and interest of the foregoing abstract is the fact that one of the seals, that of Philip Bowen, has the impression of a stag, which was the family arms of Bowen, originally ap Owen, of Slade. We have therefore in this document indisputable evidence of four things respecting Philip Bowen: (1) the place where he lived, Oxwich, (2) his position in life, gentleman, (3) that he was alive in 1583, (4) the family arms a stag.

All this information, and a great deal more, was inaccessible a few years ago, and could never have been obtained had it not been for Miss Talbot's liberality in allowing the Penrice MSS. to be printed. The discovery of the following deed among a number of old papers at Penrice Castle shows conclusively that in 1604 Philip Bowen was no longer living; the exact year when he died is so far unknown, but it is evident that his wife Elizabeth survived him, for in that year, as the deed sets forth, she sold some of her husband's property to John Lucas of Stouthole, yeoman, and the interest of her dower to David Lucas of Reynaldston, yeoman.

LLANMADOC RECTORY, NR. SWANSEA, Dec. 13th, '92.

MY DEAR MR. BOWEN,—

. . . .

Quite lately I have come across some very interesting matter relating to your remote ancestor Griffith ap Owen, who stands first in J. H.'s pedigree of Bowen of Slade. He figures very conspicuously in an affray between Sir George Herbert of Swansea, Knt.,[1] and Edward

See page 168, Davies' West Gower, Part IV., Swansea, Wales, 1894.

Mansel, Esq., in 1557, at Oxwich Castle, in the absence of its owner, Sir Rice Mansel, Knt. In the affray, Mrs. Anne Mansel, aunt of Edward Mansel, was struck on the head with a stone and killed. For this serious breach of the peace Sir Geo. Herbert was put into the Star Chamber and fined. The original papers (very voluminous) are preserved at Margam Park, and were kindly forwarded to me by Miss Talbot, and will be printed in extenso in my forthcoming fourth volume of West Gower.[1] They contain a report of the inquest on the body of Mrs. Anne Mansel, the names of the jury, the depositions of the witnesses on both sides, a full account of the particulars of the affray, and the proceedings and decree of the court of the Star Chamber in London. The cause of the affray was a dispute between Sir George Herbert and Sir Rice Mansel, concerning a French vessel wrecked on the coast, laden with wool, figs, and raisins. The quarrel arose on the question of right to the property. Amongst other details it is stated that Sir George and his retainers forcibly entered the mansion house of Griffith ap Owen, in Oxwich, and took thence two French prisoners, a sarplire of wool, one barrel of raisins, and three "peces of fygges." I am afraid you must wait for the full particulars of this affair and melee at Oxwich Castle until my book comes out. But what relates to your family is of much value, as it fixes the time of Griffith ap Owen, and supplies you with an additional date to the pedigree. His name frequently occurs in the account, and also the names of Richard ap Owen and Jevan ap Owen: these two last mentioned were certainly of Oxwich, but there is nothing further to connect them with Griffith ap Owen; whether brothers or sons you may be able to find out hereafter. Slade Cross, a locality between Oxwich and Slade, is also mentioned. I am quite sure that these papers will have a special interest for you, and ought certainly to have a place in the history of your family. You will also be able to fix the time of Wm. Hopkyn Dawkin of Kellyhyr, whose name appears in the J. H. pedigree. He is described in the account of the affray as Wm. Hopkin Dawkin of Ilston, gent. I should inform you that Kellyhyr, the name of a house, is in the parish of Ilston, Gower. He was, therefore, alive in 1557, and was on the side of Sir George Herbert, and it appears was the chief instigator of the riot, which led to rather serious consequences. All this and much more is detailed in the aforesaid papers. I need scarcely say how valuable such collateral evidence is in proving the correctness of the pedigrees.

It is impossible to say how far the present appearance of the house at Slade may resemble that of Griffith ap Owen in 1557. It is now a long, rambling, rectangular block, containing many rooms on the ground and chamber floors, and is known to have been much altered and pulled about, but still preserving traces here and there of being the residence of gentlefolks in other days; the discovery of a doorway with freestone jambs, and a pointed arch of the same material, leading into a room now used as a dairy, is perhaps the only genuine relic of the ancient mansion house. Mr. Francis Tucker, the present tenant, informed me that an extension of the old building was pulled down some years ago, the roof of which was formed with massive oak couples and framing like the roof of a church.

I think the origin of "Cedric's room," in the old house at Burryhead, is to be found in the name of Shadrack Ball, a yeoman farmer, who lived in the immediate neighborhood about one hundred years ago, or thereabouts.

Believe me, yours very truly,

Original in Latin and English. Imperfect and indistinct impression of the seal of the Court of Exchequer.

The full text of the above document has not yet been printed, but will apear in due course, when all the particulars will be given. The foregoing is taken from the descriptive catalogue of the MSS. at Penrice Castle.

Whether the Philip Bowen mentioned herein was Philip Bowen of Slade, in the parish of Oxwich, is uncertain; we have only the identity of the name to go upon, and the matter in dispute was not in Gower, but in another part of the county.

Taken in for Members of ye Congregation, The 6^{t} of ye 10th Moneth [1638] Griffith Bowen and his wife Margarett.

It appears also that a Richard Bowen, but of what family is not clearly known, died, and was interred in the burial ground attached to Rehoboth, and the Bowen arms, a stag trippant with an arrow stuck in his back, were cut on his tombstone, thus furnishing a strong proof that he was of the ancient family of the Bowens of Glamorganshire. The same arms are borne by the Bowens of Llwyngwair, Pembrokeshire.

(The Bowens of Woodstock – CS71 B786 c1897 – by Edward Augustus Bowen)

The book is about Griffith, not Richard.

It appears further, from the following bond, the original of which has happily been preserved, that Griffith Bowen, when he left South Wales, came from the parish of Llangenydd. The obligation of the bond is in Latin, and the condition in English, a not uncommon form of drawing them up in those days:—

Having had much experience in deciphering the abbreviated Latin in which this bond is written, and still more obscurely contracted in earlier deeds, I have ventured to give the text below in full, as probably, to some of the readers of this paper. it may be rather unintelligiblo as it stands in the original:—

In Engiish it may be read as follows:—

Know all men by these presents, that we Henry Bowen of Hara-den in the county of Glamorgan, gentleman, and Henry Morgan of llougher, in the county aforesaid, gentleman, are held and firmly bound to Griffith Bowen, late of Langenith, in the county aforesaid, gentleman, in £240 of good and lawful money of England, to be paid to the said Griffith or his certified Attorney, executors or assigns. For which payment to be well and faithfully made, we bind ourselves, and each of us by himself for the whole and in the full amount, our heirs, executors and administrators firmly by these presents sealed with our seals. Dated the 15th day of May, in the year of the reign of our Lord Charles, by the grace of God of England, Scotland, France and Ireland king, defender of the faith, the sixteenth, and in the year of the Lord, 1640.

I may as well mention, for the sake of those not learned in the law, that it was customary then, as now, for bonds to be given for a larger sum than that actually due. The preservation of this bond is a most fortunate circumstance, inasmuch as the words "nuper de Langenith" (late of Langenith) supply the clearest information as to where Mr. Griffith Bowen lived before he went to Boston.

It further appears that he returned to his native country in the year 1649, for in 1650, in an old Gower survey made in that year, we meet with the following entry: "The same for a tenement now in the hands of Griffith Bowen." Vid. "Gower Lordships," by Charles Baker and G. G. Francis.

In searching for information at the Public Record Office in London, Mr. Edward A. Bowen came across a very important piece of evidence bearing upon this point and the identity of the said Griffith Bowen:—

& ought to know the Indian Affairs. I observe the soldiers make a handle of it for Cowardice by * * * * * * every small Party they meet with afterwards. I have a full Acc^t of the Indians that are come out from Canada, which I rec'd from Albany, &c. And they are in all 130, part of which made Directly to the Western frontiers, where we have heard of them Divers times lately, And the next March'd East, amongst You, some of Whom I am still in hopes You will give me some good Acc^t of. Unless Your business be very Urgent, it won't be proper to leave Your Command at this Juncture, but in that Case I Allow of it. You have never yet sent me any Acc^t of the Examination of the Officers of the Indians, pursuant to my Directions. It will be necessary to Set that Matter in a true light, for they Complain of Great Injustice.

I am, sir Your humble serv^t

[Gov. Dummer, in a letter to Gov. Tallcot, of Connecticut, 29th Sept. 1725 (Mass. Arch. 52: 290), says: "It is not strange that there s^d be among us as well as in other Places, those that either from Weakness or Design are forward to censure & reproach the Proceedings of the Governm^t, be they never so reasonable & just, But I am sorry any Thing of this Kind should make Impressions on the Persons that are in Power in your Colony. As to the Causes & Provocations of the War, That subject has been so often repeated & so fully discuss'd already, as to Leave me nothing to say further, on that subject. However, I shall send you the Conference with the Indians at Arrowsick & any other Papers that I can think of, that have not yet been sent. As to the other Charge, of our being loath to come into a Peace, It is very barbarous & unjust, For there is Nothing this Governm^t is more desireous of, & have accordingly carefully improved every Appearance of an Advantage to effect, so that nothing more could be done, without making base & Abject submission to the Indians, or, which is much worse, to the French, & making them the Arbiters of Peace, W^{ch} none that have his Majesties Honour or the Prosperity of these Provinces at Heart can think reasonable."]

May it Please your Hon^r

I rec^d your Hon^{rs} Letter of the 24th on the 28th of last month. How mine of y^e 21st came to hand by Express I cannot tell unless Gov^r Wintworth made such a mistake in that as his Hon^r did in not sending Cap^t Canady's Letter with mine of the 16th of last month to your Hon^r. I sent it by a private hand and desir'd him to send a line or two to your Hon^r of his mistake, which I hope your Hon^r has rec^d. I never believ'd that there was 500 Indians come from Canada, but inasmuch as it came from Cap^t Jordan to my hand, I look't on it as my Duty to forward it to your Hon^r. I always caution every body to make less rather than more of what they hear or see relating the Enemy, notwithstanding some make the most of every thing. If my Affairs did not more than ordinary want me at home, I wou'd not have desir'd it after I rec^d your Hon^{rs} Orders to have the Officers of the Indian Company & the Witnesses face to face. I immediately sent for the Officers from Richmond in order to examine them, but the Indians were out in the woods pursuant to your Hon^{rs} Orders, so that I cou'd not bring them face to face, Doctor Bacon complaining that it wou'd be a great damage to stop him till the return of the Indians. I permitted him to wait on your Hon^r, as your Hon^r will see by the Enclosed, which is a true Copy. Capt Moulton is return'd from his march, a Journal of wh^{ch} is herewith sent your Hon^r. The Indians are uneasy, wanting to be dismiss'd, and threaten, if they are not, to run away.

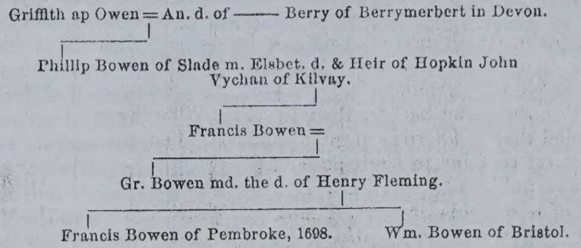
GRIFFITH BOWEN OF BOSTON.

By EDWARD AUGUSTUS BOWEN, Esq., of Woodstock, Conn.

GRIFFITH BOWEN, of Boston, belonged to the family of the "Bowens of Slade," in the parish of Oxwich, Gower, Glamorgan, Wales. I have found three pedigrees of this family. The one deposited in the College of Arms, London, begins with Beli Mawr, King of Britain, 55 B.C., and ends with the generation of "Griffith Bowen of Barryhead." The pedigree in the Golden Grove Books, at the Public Record Office, London, begins with Griffith Gwyr and ends with "Griff: B: of Buryshade." The "I. H." pedigree, possessed by the late Joseph Joseph, Esq., F.S.A., of Brecon, is as follows:*

BOWEN OF SLADE,
IN THE PARISH OF OXWICH, GOWER, GLAMORGANSHIRE.



Griffith ap Owen = An. d. of —— Berry of Berrymerbert in Devon.
Phillip Bowen of Slade m. Elsbet. d. & Heir of Hopkin John Vychan of Kilvay.
Francis Bowen =
Gr. Bowen md. the d. of Henry Fleming.
Francis Bowen of Pembroke, 1698.
Wm. Bowen of Bristol.

The first that we know of Griffith Bowen is, that in 1632 he was one of a "jurie" in a survey of Oxwich and Nicholaston;† and in a survey of Penrice, in the same year, it appears that "Gryffith Bowen, gent. houldeth freely of sayd mannor one messuage and tenem^{ts} of land called Mount y brough, conteyninge about 16 acres."‡

---

* This pedigree was sent me by Rev. J. D. Davies, M.A., Llanmadoc, Glamorgan, Wales.
† Surveys of Gower and Kilvey and Several Mesne, Manors, etc., by Charles Baker and G. G. Francis.
‡ Ibid.

While living on the Gower, 1 May, 1638, Griffith Bowen sold two small estates, and his deed to the property describes the parties and the lands as follows:

"Griffith Bowen of Oxwich, gent and Margarett his wife and Ellen Francklyn aɫs Row of the parish of Langenith widdowe of the one partie and Samuell Mathewes of Westminster, gent. of the other partie - - - in consideraco̅n of the som̅e of Three hundred poundx - - - confirme unto the said Samuell Mathewes - - - two severall messuagx and Tentx with divers parcells of landx - - - com̅only called and known by the severall names of Coolme and Burry conteyning together by estimaco̅n two messuagx two barnes two gardens one orchard fifty and five acres of pasture - - - Within the parish of Langenith - - - ."*

An agreement was entered into on the 17th day of September, 1638, between Griffin Bowen and Margaret his wife, and William Bennett, by which Griffin and Margaret Bowen covenanted to sell to William Bennett "two messuages, two barnes, two gardens, one orchard, twenty-four acres of land, three acres of meadow, six acres of pasture, four acres of wood and six acres of furze and heath with appurtenances in Penrice."†

Griffith and Margaret Bowen came to New England shortly after the date of the foregoing agreement. They may have sailed from Bristol, England, and, probably, brought with them five or six children.

The first trace we have of them in the New World is, that on "The 6^{t} of y^{e} same 12th moneth [1638] Griffyn Bowen & his wife Margarett" were "Taken in for members of y^{e} Congregation" of the church in Boston.‡

On the 25th of March, 1639, "Mr Gryffen Bowen" had a "great Lott granted unto him at Muddy River;"§ two months after, he "was one of the Persons made free."‖

There is a Bond, recorded among the Deeds of Suffolk County, Mass., which is dated 15th day of May, 1640, and by which Henry Bowen of Haraden in the County Glamorgan, gentleman, and Henry Morgan of Llougher in the "county aforesaid," gentleman, bound themselves to pay Griffith Bowen, "late of Langenith, in the county aforesaid, gentleman, fiftye pownds vpon the twentieth day of October 1641, and Three score & Eighteen pownds more vpon the twentieth day of October 1642."¶

It is a fortunate thing that this Bond was recorded, for it is the only clue we have in America of the place of Griffith Bowen's residence before he came to New England.

At a Town meeting held in Boston "This 29th day of 11th Mo. 1643," it was voted that "There is granted unto Gryphen Bowin Gent., an howse lot, if any yet remaine to be disposed of."

The only public office Griffith Bowen was elected to while in Boston was that of perambulator: "9: 2 mo: 1649 Mr Bowin & Petter Oliver is chosen for perambulation at Mudye River;"†† and it is the last record we have of him before his departure for Wales. He must have sailed for England soon after this, taking with him his wife and some of his children.

Griffith Bowen's name next appears in a Survey of Gower Wallicana, in 1650, as a "Freeholder" in the "Parcell Clase: The same for a tenem^{t} in the hands of Griffith Bowen $\overset{li}{00}\ \overset{s}{00}\ \overset{d}{07}$."*

Griffith Bowen was a witness to a deed, dated 17th December, 1650, by which his father-in-law, Henry Fleming, conveyed to Col. Philip Jones "two parcels of land in the liberty of Swansea."†

In "Docket Book, No. 1, 1647 to 1654, Glamorgan," deposited in the Public Record Office, London, is this entry: "Fines leavyed & acknowledged this Session Betweene Phillip Jones Esq Plt Griffin Bowen ffrancis Bowen & William Bowen deforc̃ of ten[ements] in Lanmadoc." The Fines for this Session (Spring, 1652), are missing, so the particulars of this transfer of property cannot be given.

Griffith Bowen and Robt. Williams farmed the excise of Glamorgan, Carmarthen, Pembroke and Cardigan, from the Commissioners of Customs, for one year, expiring 25th December, 1653, at £270.‡

Afterward (in 1660–1?) Griffith Bowen was imprisoned at "Southwarke," at the instance of the "Right Hono^{ble} Charles Lord Gerrard of Brandon," because while Collector of Customs, at the "Port of Swansey," by his account for the last quarter of the year there appeared to be a balance of £388. 4s. due the Commissioners of Customs, which sum he had already "returned vp" to London by Bills of Exchange.§ How long he was imprisoned, and what were the conditions of his discharge, have not been discovered.

On the 30th of May, 1654, the "hono^{ble} Collonell Phillipp Jones of Swansey in the County of Glamorgan Esquire and one of the Counsell to his Highnes the Lord Protector of England, Scotland and Ireland" entered into a covenant with Griffith Bowen of Swansey, gentleman, by which "the said Collonell Phillipp Jones ffor and in Consideracon of £524 - - to him paid by the said Griffith Bowen - - - sold and confirmed - - - unto the said Griffith Bowen - - - those several respective mesuages or Tenem^{t}s Cotages Milnes lands hereditam^{ts} & p^{r}misses - - scituate - - on the Hill within the parish of S^{t} Maries com̅only called S^{t} Maries Hill in the Libtie of Pembroke within the County of Pembroke. Also all that parcell of arable of Land adjoining called Goodylake - - - Also all that water Corne Grist Milne knowne by the name of Milton Milne lying in the parish of Carew in the said County of Pembroke. And also all that mesuage or Tenem^{t} lying in the parish of Hodgeston in the said County of Pembroke."‖

Griffith Bowen "for some very short tyme only enjoyed" his Pembroke estate, for in 1656, "not onely the Commonalty of the City of London made theire clayme unto the - - - premises but al'soe the University of Oxford made there clayme unto the Fee Farme Rent of" £19. 6. 8. and "It was found that these lands of right belonged unto the City of London, and that the Fee Farme Rent belonged unto the University of Oxford, and the sale made by Phillip Jones became absolutely void." Whereupon Griffith Bowen "made his addresses unto Phillip Jones and acquainted him with the proceedings." Phillip Jones promised "either hee would make good the estate, or would repay him all the purchase money;" this he afterward refused to do, and Griffith Bowen brought, in 1661, a suit in Chancery.[*]

The suit went against him, and after being beaten in another "Accon att Law against the said Philip Jones" Griffith Bowen twice appealed "To the Right Hono^{ble} the Lords Spirituall & Temporal Assembled att the High Court of Parliament." In one of these petitions he complains that he is "altogether destitute of Reliefe att Law or Equitie or elsewhere than before yo^{r} Lordshipps in Parliament Assembled."[†] The first petition is endorsed "Griffith Bowen his Peticon Read 10th January 1670 Rejected;" the other is endorsed "1672–3 Mar 11 Pet. Book."

While living in "Swansey," 20th of July, 1661, Griffith Bowen executed a formal surrender to the King of the property bought of Colonel Philip Jones. He did this "in pursuance of an order made by the Lords and other His Maiesties Commissioners - - - And for other considerations:"[‡] one of which may have been due to what follows:

On the 19th of August, 1661, "The King[§] - - - by advice of the Earl of Southampton, High Treasurer of England - - - and Lord Ashley, Chancellor of the Court of Exchequer," granted and devised unto his "beloved subject Griffith Bowen All that water grain mill in Milton," in the County of Pembroke, "of the yearly rent of x^{li} All that fulling mill there (now in decay) hitherto in the tenure of John Perrott Knight, of the yearly value xxvj^{s} viij^{d} sometime parcel of the possessions of Rice Griffith Esq. attainted - - - And all buildings structures barns stables orchards gardens curtilages mill-dues tolls soc commodities whatsoever to the said mills - - - appertaining To have and to hold - - - from the feast of the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary last past - - - for the term of 31 years thereafter Paying therefor to us and our successors xj^{li} vj^{s} viij^{d}."

On the 7th of April, 1669, "Griffith Bowen sometimes of New England now resident in London - - - in consideration of a contract of marriage now consumated betweene Isaac Addington of Boston in New England chirurgeon, & my daughter Elizabeth Bowen - - - confirme vnto my sonne Isaac Addington aforesjd All my right interest & title in two parcells of land scittuate in Boston at p^{r}sent in occupation of Capt. William Dauis - - - one parcell being three quarters of an acre, lying neere to the dwelling of M^{r} Jacob Elliott - - - the other parcell (about half an acre) lying something distant from the land aforesajd."[||]

"For the more cleare and full confirmation of the premises" Griffith Bowen "nowe resident in the City of London sometime of Boston in New England" gave, 28 March, 1671, Isaac Addington a second deed to the two parcels of land in Boston.[¶]

On or about 16th December, 1669, "Griffith Bowen of S^{t} Saviours Southwark in the County of Surrey" brought suits in Chancery against Francis Bowen, John Bowen and Edward Wooldridge.

In his complaints,[] Griffith Bowen states that "in 1662, living with his family in Swansey and having urgent business that required his presence at the City of London," he deposited in the hands of Francis Bowen, his son, "several deeds and other writings goods chattels implements of household stuff and other personal estate to be safely kept until he should demand the same;" that afterward he went to London, and being "wholly unprovided of monies" he applied to "John Bowen of Swansey a kinsman" who was then in London "that he would use his interest with one Edward Wooldridge a scrivener," with whom John Bowen had placed "Nehemiah his son an apprentice," for procuring a loan of £100 "upon a mortgage of a mill known by the name of Milton Mill lying near the towne of Pembroke;" that John Bowen and Edward Wooldridge, by a combination between them, had never paid over to him the £100, although it had been promised him, and they had got into their possession the Milton Mill.

Griffith Bowen further complains that John Bowen pretending he was engaged for him (Griffith Bowen) and Francis Bowen to Mr. Wooldridge and others in the sum of £305, prevailed upon him to assign over all his "right title and interest of in and to a certain lease of ninety nine years of and in all those burgage messuages lands tenements and hereditaments scituate lying and being in Treckbeck the Hill Good Lake alias wood Lake Hodgiston alias Hogston in the county of Pembroke," and that the said Francis Bowen in consideration thereof would forthwith pay "these several sums of money following (that is to say) To Edward Wooldredge of London Scrivener of £116. To Lady Vaughan of Terrahvyd £159. To William Jones of Swanzey £30. To Cornelius Price of the city of London £21. 16 and the further sum of £20 unto your Orator. And your Orator in the year 1666 Did by his Indenture assign and let over the premises unto the said Francis Bowen but the said confederates have not paid the sums of money above mentioned wherefore your orator prays that the said Francis Bowen John Bowen and Edward Wooldridge may be commanded to appear before the High and Honorable Court of Chancery to make a true and perfect answer to all and singular the premises."

Francis Bowen "gentleman" in his answer to the Bill of Complaint of Griffith Bowen, states that "the Complainant did leave in his hands some implements of household stuff, part whereof he afterward delivered to the Complainant in London, and what remains he is willing to restore provided the Complainant do pay the cellarage rent of the chamber where they remain, not being in his custody."

He denies that the deeds to the lands named in the Bill were settled upon him in trust, but for good and valuable consideration.

He confesses that "he did enter into a Bond of £600 penalty to pay unto the Complainant and the several creditors mentioned the several debts, and he has since paid a great part of them, and is ready to pay what yet remain."

He states that "the other defendant, John Bowen being bound with him, and security for the several sums of money, he did convey and assign over the premises for the security and satisfaction of the said John Bowen, as in justice he ought to do. Nevertheless, he is willing, if the Plaintiff will first pay and satisfy the said several debts and keep harmless this Defendant and the other Defendant, John Bowen, to reconvey the said premises unto the Plaintiff, merely to satisfy this honorable Court of the Defendants inclination to pay to the Complainant, being his father, and to avoid all scandal."[*]

"John Bowen one of the Defendants to the Bill of Complaint of Griffith Bowen" in his "several Answers" goes into all the details of his money transactions with Griffith and Francis Bowen. He states, in part: "whereof this Defendant borrowed to lend unto the Plaintiff to set his son Peniell Bowen an apprentice in London the sum of £40 of Charles Bowen Esquire - - - the same £60 being due unto the said Francklen by bond as aforesaid from the plaintiff and his sons Francis and William - - - whereof the Plaintiff - - - stood in extraordinary want to pay the said Francklen and to supply himself being then in London in great want of money to prosecute a suit he had against one Co^l^. Phillip Jones - - - the Plaintiff had the 14^th^ day of October Anno 1662 by his Deed under his hand and seal well executed in presence of Moses Longman Christopher Rogers and Peniel Bowen conveyed all his right in and to the premises and Mills unto the Defendant Francis." This answer of John Bowen is dated "Swansea decimo die Octobris Anno 1671."*

I have not discovered any traces of Griffith Bowen later than "1672–3 Mar 11," which date is endorsed on his second petition to the House of Lords. He may have lived in London up to the time of his death. Something further may be disclosed by examining the records of the town and county of Pembroke, or the records of London and Glamorgan.

Griffith Bowen's New England estate was not divided among his heirs until 1683, nearly eight years after notice of his death had been received by the Court at Boston. It may be that this delay was owing to difficulties in settling his entangled Welsh estate, or to some other cause not yet discovered.

The Court in Boston granted, April 17, 1676, "Power of Administration unto the Estate of M^r^ Griffith Bowen formerly of Boston (who died in England) unto Henry Bowen his son in right of those whome it may appear to belong."

On the "6^th^ of Novemb^r^ 1683" the County Court appointed "L^tt^ Samuel Ruggels & M^r^ John Bowles of Roxbury and M^r^ Jacob Eliot of Boston a Comittee to make division and sett out the s^d^ Estate," instructing them to give "a double part thereof to Francis his eldest son."

They accordingly divided it, as they wrote, "In y^e^ Best of our Prudence With the consent & to the satisfaction of those concerned viz Mr William Bowen, Mr John Weld, widow Child & Henry Bowen." They gave "Mr ffrancis Bowen and Mr William Bowen y^e^ North end of the ffarme with the Houseing & orchards - - - half the salt marsh" and part of the "wood lott."†

GRIFFITH BOWEN, by wife Margaret Fleming, had children:

i. MARGARET,² born in Wales. She was, perhaps, the eldest child. She married, 24 December, 1647, John Weld of Roxbury. He was born in England, 28 October, 1623; died in Roxbury, 20 September, 1691. She died 13 September, 1692.

ii. FRANCIS, born in Wales. All that is known of him is contained in the "I. H." pedigree, the Chancery Suits, and in another Chancery Suit dated 27 January, 1692, in which "ffrancis Bowen of the Towne of Pembroke" complains that Mallett Bateman has violated his contract to furnish him "two thousand and four hundred strickes or Winchesters of oats etc."‡

iii. WILLIAM, born in Wales. The "I. H." pedigree states he was "of Bristol." He was a "marriner," and was captured by the Turks, and died in captivity about 1686.* He had a son William.

On the tenth day of May, 1716, "William Bowen of Boston Taylor only son of William Bowen of Bristol in the Kingdom of Great Britain marriner deced" for £80 conveyed his part of that "parcel of the Estate of Mr Griffith Bowen (Grand Father to the s^d^ William Bowen) - - - that fell in Division - - - unto the said William Bowen (the Father) and his brother Francis in full of their share - - - of which two parts do belong unto the s^d^ Francis Bowen late deced - - - accruing and of right belonging unto him the said William Bowen in right to his Uncle Francis Bowen before named."†

iv. HENRY, born in Wales in 1633. He married, 20 December, 1658, Elizabeth, daughter of Captain Isaac and Elizabeth (Porter) Johnson of Roxbury. She was born 24 December, 1637. Henry Bowen lived in Roxbury and Woodstock, and died in Woodstock (Conn.), 13 March, 1723–4, "in y^e^ 90^th^ year of his age."

So far as it is known, Henry Bowen was the only son of Griffith Bowen whose posterity now bears the family name.

v. MARY, born ——; married (?) Benjamin Child of Roxbury. He died 14 October, 1678. "Widow Child" had a share of Griffith Bowen's estate. She died 31 October, 1707.

vi. ESTHER, born in Boston, or Muddy River; baptized 10: 12th mo: 1638; died 28 March, 1654(?).

vii. ABIGAIL, baptized 10: 2d mo: 1641.

viii. PENIEL, baptized‡ "1644 Month 3, day 5. Peniel Bowen, the son of M^r^ Bowen of Boston Church, by Comunion of Churches, he living at a farme neerer to us than to Boston, his wife was deliv^d^ of this child by Gods mercy w^th^out the help of any oth^r^ woman. God himself helping his pore servants in a straight."

The only other records of Peniel Bowen, yet discovered, are in John Bowen's answer to Griffith Bowen's suit in Chancery, already noticed. Peniel Bowen probably died before his father, for his name does not appear in the settlement of his father's estate.

ix. ELIZABETH, born ——; married in 1669, Isaac Addington. She died 2 March, 1712–3. He was born 22 January, 1645, and died 19 March, 1714–5.

x. DERIAH, baptized 11: 2 mo: 1647, "aged about 6 days."

A CONTRIBUTION TO THE EARLY HISTORY OF STONINGTON, CONN.

By GEO. A. GORDON, A.M., of Somerville, Mass.

THE southeastern corner of Connecticut, lying within the Pequot territory, was early called Southerntown, and held to be within the limits of Suffolk County, Massachusetts. When, however, Connecticut obtained her charter, in 1662, the settlement was included within her limits and, in 1666, was named Stonington. The territory was

J Bowen fecit

These are not really the ancestors of our Richard Bowen of Rehoboth, though for a long time early in the 20th century his descendants thought so. It turns out this Mathias Bowen's grandson Richard died as a child. However, the rest of these charts are essentially true, so save this to save much time in case one of our forbears fits in here somewhere. It takes a while to put these together.

Each generation of ancestors doubles as you go back. In 13 or 14 generations there are millions of them — then billions before you know it — but a thousand or 1500 years ago there were not a billion people on the whole planet. It has to be that certain early (or not so early if cousins married or siblings married into the same families) people are our ancestors several times over. And in the hard old times only the fittest and best fed survived to reproduce. I firmly believe in the law of probabilities which would lead to the conclusion that many people (perhaps most) have to have at least some royal blood back there somewhere. They just don't know it. A long time ago rich clients were made proud by being sold false information they believed by charlatans. These charts are true, at least.

Ancestors of Pain de Turberville
(107,310) Gen. 17
of Coity Castle, Wales

(See Bowen Memorial page 75)
The in-between generations were not listed, but the first in Wales - generation 26 or 27 - was a Norman, also named Pain (or Paganus) de Turberville, Knight, one of the 12 knights under General Robert Fitz Hammond for William the Conqueror. He had instructions to take over a castle of his own choosing.

Instead of following the usual custom and battling Morgan for his castle, he (with consent of the father) married the daughter.

Sara, daughter of Morgan ap Meurig, rightful owner of Coity Castle.
he was a descendant of Jestyn Gurgant.

The home of the de Turberville in Normandy was near Pont-Audemer

(wife of (___) Brin) was the "rightful heiress of St. Donant's Castle."

(27th generation)
(219,758,592) The first,
William le Esterling, Knight of Flanders - a Fleming who came with William the Conqueror's Normans. He was one of the twelve knights under General Sir Robert Fitz hammond, who granted him St Donant's Castle, usurped from the rightful Welsh owners in 1092 AD. The name changed gradually from de Esterling to Stradling

The name de Gamage is derived from Gamaches in the French Vexin. This family is said to be descended from Protadius, Mayor of the Palace of Theodoric, King of Orleans AD 604 (Du Bois).
(Later Gamage families in America were prominent in the Rev. War)

* Some Welsh Strongbow became a ruler in Ireland. Same family?

CHART NO. 1 MILWAUKEE COUNTY GENEA GICAL SOCIETY Rev. 1985

(Bowen Pedigree)

Chart A 6 (f)

THE GENEALOGICAL DESCENTS OF THE PRINCES OF WALES.

"This table is taken from Rev. William Warrington's 'History of Wales.' It begins with Beli Mawr, father of Cassivelaunus, who opposed Cæsar. From that period the pedigrees are so corroborated by history and ancient MSS. as to leave no doubt of their authenticity." — W. OWEN.

It will be seen by an examination of this table that the Bowen family reach Beli Mawr, paternally, through Meurig, Tenesan, and Lludd; maternally, through the Griffiths of Penrhyn, by their intermarriages with the princes of South Wales, Powis, and North Wales, — South Wales through Howel Dda, Roderick the Great, and the Cunedda line; Powis, through Rhiwallon, Gaethfoed, and Casfardd Wledig, etc.

THE GENEALOGICAL DESCENTS OF THE PRINCES OI ALES.

"This table is taken from Rev. William Warrington's 'History of Wales.' It begins with Beli Mawr, father of Cassivelaunus, who opposed Cæsar. From that period the pedigrees are so corroborated by history and ancient MSS. as to leave no doubt of their authenticity." — W. Owen.

It will be seen by an examination of this table that the Bowen family reach Beli Mawr, paternally, through Meurig, Tenesan, and Lludd; maternally, through the Griffiths of Penrhyn, by their intermarriages with the princes of South Wales, Powis, and North Wales, — South Wales through Howel Dda, Roderick the Great, and the Cunedda line; Powis, through Rhiwallon, Gaethfoed, and Casfardd Wledig, etc.

MILWAUKEE COUNTY GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY Rev. 1985

I have not succeeded in filling in the gaps of the Phillips / Vaughn pedigree – perhaps partly because certain ancestors, though of Welsh (Briton) blood, lived outside of Wales proper – as did Llyr Merini of Cornwall and his son Cardioc (Karadog) Earl of Hereford. The latter and his grandson Bleddyn each had two sets of Arms, which overlapped. Even the Welsh Coat of Arms book mixes this Cardioc up with another of the same name who figured in the legend of King Arthur as a Knight of the Round Table. There are at least 4 centuries between the two Cardiocs!

The line picks up again with Einion yrth, King of North Wales 389-443 AD, son of Cunedda Wledig King of the Strathclyde Britons 328-389 AD (Scotland) and much of North Wales. He inherited the Welsh territory from his mother Gwawl ferch Coel Godebog, and the SW Scotland territory from his father Edeyrn Bilgrab.

Both lines ascends in the Princes of Wales Chart, (which sees Coel Godebog was a colorful character. He slew Asclepiodotus, King of Britain in battle, thus becoming king himself. Constantius, a Roman senator from Asia Minor (father of Constantine the Great) was sent from Spain to reduce Coel to obedience, and peace was agreed upon – about 300 A.D. Of course the Welsh (Gaels) occupied all Britain back then, before the invasions of the Saxons. The chart starts 100BC.

Wales was literate before England, but vicious invaders deliberately destroyed almost all records. Dates are rarely given in early Welsh lineages.

* See Above – Gen 16 – de Lusignan

Isabella of Angloueme, our ancestress, as a very little girl was promised to Hugh de Lusignan (in France). When she was 12 years old King John of England saw her, fell in love, kidnapped + married her. She was happy at first, + evidently faithful. John's insanity grew worse, making it hard for her (+ all England). He was forced to yield to the Magna Charta Barons in 1215 + died the next year. Isabella fled to the Continent. Though John + Hugh had done battle over her, she now married him + had children including four sons (de Lusignans) who came to England where they were favored by their older half brother, King Henry III (though the British did not much care for them). The man above was their uncle. (One history book mentioning the boys is "The Feudal Monarchy in France + England - 10th to 13th Century" by Charles Petit-Dutaillis, trans. from the French. Harper (1964) see index.)

As you will see from others of these charts, King John + Isabella (at left) were our ancestors, too!

The compiler is 11th generation from Richard Bowen, thus 34 from the people living about or before the year 1000 AD, in the last column. My grandchildren should add another two generations.

OTHER MARRIAGES

Larse Jensen

Larse Jensen was born of goodly parents, both joining the L.D.S. Church and migrating to the United States.

His father, Larse Peter Jensen, came when he was a boy and helped to bury his father on the plains.

His mother Johannah Mortenson Jensen came to Utah when she was 21, both she and her husband were from Denmark.

Mr. and Mrs Jensen were sent from Spanish Fork Utah to St. Johns Airzona on a mission to help build it up, and that was where Larse was born. When he was 10 years old they moved back to Spanish Fork and then to Mapleton, where he lived until 1910 when he met and married Maude Ethel Woodward. He left two weeks afterward for a mission to Denmark where he stayed 2 years.

He worked on the farms for a while then went to Mamoth Utah to work in the mines. Then he and his father-in-law bought a ranch near Roosevelt. He and his wife moved to it six months after his first boy was born. There he lived until 1922, when the banks went broke and wiped out a good many people as well as Mr. Jensen. While on the ranch he worked in the church, part of the time as 2nd. assistent to the Bishop.

He then moved to Mapleton and then to Spanish Fork and worked at the Columbia Steel plant, where he was over heated and gassed. He had to work out doors so went back to farming for a few years in Utah and Idaho. He then left and went to San Bernardion, Calif.

He was the father of six childred: Robert Larse, Velma, Donald William, Hannah Rose, Vona Maude, and Dell Roy.

The first four born in Utah, Vona in Idaho, and Dell Roy in California. Mr. Jensen was never well after he was gassed, but made a living for his family until the last 11 years of his life, when he was unable to work.

He died June 5, 1954 in San Bernardino, California.

Eudes, Count of Brittany + Penthievre. His father was Geoffrey, Duke of Brittany (980-1008) son of Conan I + Ermengarde of Anjou. His mother was Hawise, natural dau of Richard I Duke of Normandy (Great Grandfather of William the Conqueror)

P.S. - To Note at Bottom: By a twist of fate, the mad King John was also our ancestor.

NOTE: This page contains the names of many victims of the insane King John of England. Roger and Hugh Bigod were two of the Magna Charta Barons. Sir William Marshall ruled England for 3 years (1216 until his death in 1219) as Regent for child King Henry III. He had tried in vain to temper John's behavior. The most poignant true story of all is the death of Maud (St Valorie) de Braiose who was starved to death along with her young son William, walled up in her own castle in 1210 on orders of the king. Her husband William de Braiose (you will often find it spelled Brieuze + other ways in history books) fled to France under the protection of King Philip Augustus, but died the next year of a broken heart.

← The De Clare line is continued in the Fitz Alan Pedigrees and it includes ancient rulers of Ireland, including Brian Boru!

m. Sybil, dau of Roger de Montgomery, Earl of Shrewsbury

* According to NEHGR CXIX : 15-16 Robert was one of the most important men of his day

* Robert Fitz Hamon was head General of the Norman knights who subdued Wales - starting in era of Wm. Rufus - and usurped the lands, which then became property of his knights + himself.

Per Bowen Memorial:

The first William le Esterling, Knight, a Fleming (of Flanders) was one of Fitz Hamons men, (who granted him St. Donat's Castle, usurped from the rightful Welsh owners in 1092 AD. The name gradually changed to Stradling.
His great grandson, Sir Robert Stradling, born ca 1200 AD, (17th gen from Richard Bowen ?) of St Donat's Castle, Wales married Hawisa Brin daughter of of Sir Hugh Brin, Knight, whose mother (19th gen ?) was the "rightful owner" of the Castle.
